Magical Moments

Those main doors seemed so big to the freshmen, but so small and familiar to the seniors. We had made it; our senior year. It was the beginning of the very end of our high school career. However for the freshmen it was only the very beginning. We knew that once we entered, everything would be familiar and our six hour day would fly by. And as we continued through the year our magical moments continued to keep us smiling. We started off with the Homecoming and the High v. Comp football game. Next came the fall sports, winter sports, and then the Winter Cotillion. Spring sports and Spirit Week flew by while the Junior Prom sneaked up around the corner. To the seniors, all that really mattered was Senior Week and finally graduation on June 8.

But even though our time is done here and we are forced to go into the real world, the lessons learned and our experiences here will continue to guide us through the surprises of the future. For the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, your times here will be magical and memorable. The one constant thing about high school is that it is only as good as you make it.

Taking one last look at our high school career can be hard. After all, for the past four years we have been under the wing of the faculty and administration at Chicopee Comp. But each student that graduates from this school is taught the necessities that are needed to survive in the real world.

Some people say that your high school memories will last a lifetime. That will be true for all of us, because the magical memories we experienced here are unforgettable.

-Lindsay Folsom, Co-Editor-In-Chief

"Out of my way!" Junior Tony Couture tries to get past Chicopee High player Tyrone Tatum in the first quarter of the game. As an All League player, Tony hopes to bring the sword back next year.

Can you guess who's number one? The senior boys up front would say Comp. On September 16 the student body flocked to Szot Park to cheer on their football team against the Chicopee High Pacers. This game is always a magical moment for Comp students, faculty, and administration.

Just hanging around on a weekend night is what we all enjoy doing at one time or another. Juniors Stephanie Godbout, Audrey McLain, Alissa Kozikowski, Krista Trench, and Becky Deslauriers enjoy a Friday night just clowning around and enjoying each other's company.

"This is one of our favorite magical moments," says Josh Pendrick and Brenda Huard. Josh and Brenda along with the rest of their class think that they generated many magical moments.

When all work is done in fourth period the girls just like to lounge around. Jessica Masse, Krista Trench, Lynette Casa, and Diane Casa enjoyed some break time when all the work is done in their business class.

DEDICATION: Mrs. Mary Rider

Some people, like former professional basketball player Charles Barkley and protagonists of Ayn Rand novels, insist that their life is their own to live, that they owe others nothing, and that they want no part of mentoring younger generations. Others see the world differently; they consider a day incomplete if they have not done something to help someone less experienced, less fortunate, or merely eager to learn. In a world of takers and givers, Mrs. Mary Rider is the ultimate giver. Chicopee in general, and Comp in particular, have reaped enormous benefits from her contributions. By dedicating Memini 2001 to Mrs. Rider, we show our appreciation to a true role model.

The daughter of Scottish immigrants, Mrs. Rider moved to the Chicopee area in 1942. She attended Chicopee public schools through Grade 8, and graduated as salutatorian from Holy Name High School. In her youth, she helped care for five younger siblings, but found time for Scottish Highland Dancing, singing, performing in variety shows.

Mrs. Rider's adult life has been devoted to family, education, civic organizations, her church, and various charities. She raised five sons, for a time as a single parent, and watched proudly as all graduated from Comp with academic and athletic distinctions. With her encouragement and substantial sacrifice—including years of working two, or even three, jobs while herself attending evening and weekend college courses—all of her sons were able to graduate from private colleges. Mrs. Rider earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Library Sciences from the University of Massachusetts in 1980, and has continued her education with various graduate level courses since. With her own college experience as well as over twenty years of completing financial aid applications, attending parents' weekends, paying tuition bills, and typing papers for her sons, she is well qualified to counsel students and parents on all aspects of the college experience.

Mrs. Rider's contributions to the Chicopee community are legendary. She was an active member of various Parent-Teacher Associations and Organizations, a Cub Scout Den Mother, and a CCD teacher for much of her adult life. Mrs. Rider has been awarded the St. George's Cross Award for service to children and has been named Mother of the Year by the Archdiocese of Springfield. She has raised money for countless charities, and for 10 years served as a guide/instructor for blind skiers at Mt. Tom Ski Area. She continues to volunteer at the Springfield Soup Kitchen, St. Mary's Church, and other charitable and civic organizations.

Mrs. Rider's career with Chicopee schools started in 1968, when she volunteered part-time at the Lambert-Lavoie library. She subsequently became the full-time librarian at Lambert-Lavoie, and in 1985 moved to Comp. As librarian, she is responsible for not only developing and maintaining the library's collection of books, computers, software, and maps, but also for educating herself on new technologies and providing research assistance to students and faculty. As with everything else she does, Mrs. Rider puts her full energy into making herself available to help the school community. Some of her greatest joys come from working with students truly intent on learning; her greatest challenges come from trying to motivate students whose appreciation for their own educational potential is not yet fully developed.

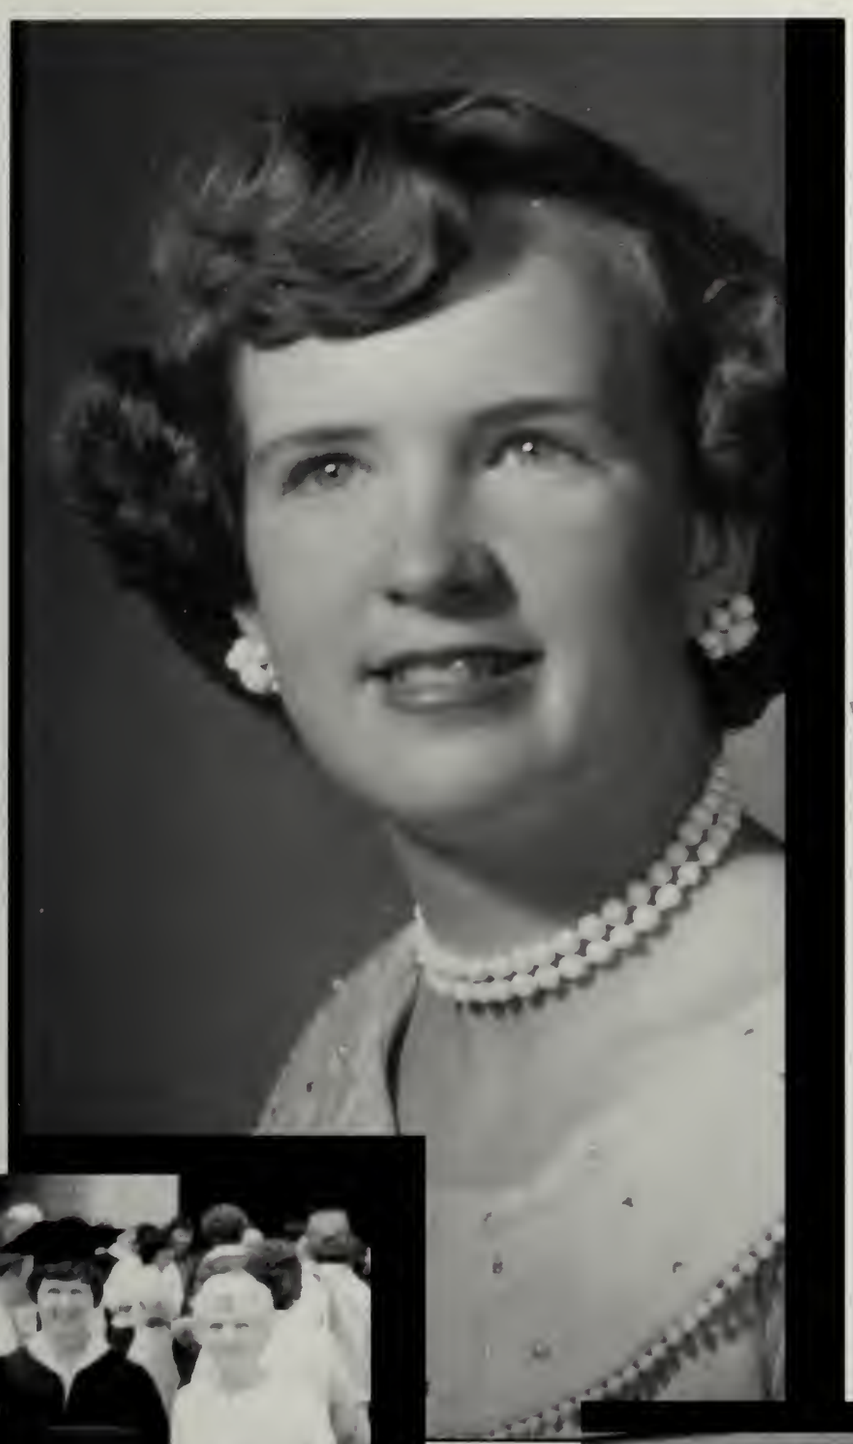
Mrs. Rider has been an enthusiastic and ardent supporter of CCHS for many years. Her contributions to this school and to the community at large, her relentless energy, her devotion to education and the enrichment of Comp's students, and her efforts to improve the lives of those around her make us proud to have shared time with her and inspire us to learn from her examples.

Her warm friendly face is always graced by a welcoming smile that awaits any student's question. Everyone knows her, admires her, and is aware that she will answer any question they may have expeditiously. Never judging what you ask, she is always willing to lend a helping hand or a listening ear. Mrs. Mary Rider is a friend to many, a blessing to all, and the type of individual that encourages each of us to strive to be a better person.

-Crochiere Family and Laura Allen

Enjoying quality time with her adorable grandchildren, Mrs. Rider always has time for the important people in her life.

Dancing the night away, Mrs. Rider accompanies her mother in Scottish Highland Dancing.



"What we like and what we dislike are unimportant. To achieve, to succeed, to win, we must do what is necessary and what is right. This is most important in our education. This is most important in our lives."

Skiing has always been a favorite sport for Mrs. Rider. In the past, she even taught the blind to ski at Mt. Tom.

Graduation day is so much fun! Mrs. Rider at her 1980 UMASS graduation.

Preparing to take a leisurely stroll on a sunny afternoon, Mrs. Rider takes her dolls along for the ride.

In Memory of Nate D'Angelo and Carly Kane....

As we are getting ready to move on with our lives all excited and scared to take that big step, still trying to figure out what our purposes in life are, and worrying about leaving our friends that are closest to us. We stop and think about those two special people that we are all going to miss forever.

In 1999 we were now the sophomores at Comp and nothing could have made us any happier than not being the itty-bitty freshmen anymore. Some of the pressures were off and we were just starting to enjoy our high school years. We all had our own little groups of friends throughout the school, all except one girl in particular who seemed to be friends with everyone. That smiling face that you could pick out of a crowd in a second, whether it be on the softball field during her softball games, on the floor during gymnastics, or in the drive-through window at Dunkin Donuts. She had so many things to look forward to as well as we did. All of which our good friend and classmate Carly Kane never got to enjoy.

On the evening of May 6,1999, Carly Kane was taken from us in a automobile accident. There were a certain few who heard of the accident that night but for the rest of us we didn't find out until the next day. It was hard for many people who were really close to her and knew her well to accept what had happened.

After the summer was over we were getting ready to go back to school, things had begun to look up after the hardships we had the previous year. On August 1999 another classmate and friend Nate D'Angelo was taken from us in another tragic car accident. Although he was only here for one year he was just as special to us as Carly was. Nate came to us from Ludlow half way through his sophomore year. He was in vocational and he played basketball for Comp as well. In memory of Nate our basketball team wore black patches on their jerseys in memory of him. He is missed by his fellow teammates and classmates very much.

For the people who were not fortunate enough to know these two very special individuals, this was their opportunity to learn about two wonderful and caring people they never knew. We are all left with an empty space in our hearts only to fill with the memories and thoughts of Carly and Nate. We will move on with our lives but we will always keep their smiles and love in our hearts forever.

With loving memories-
Stephanie Marstellar

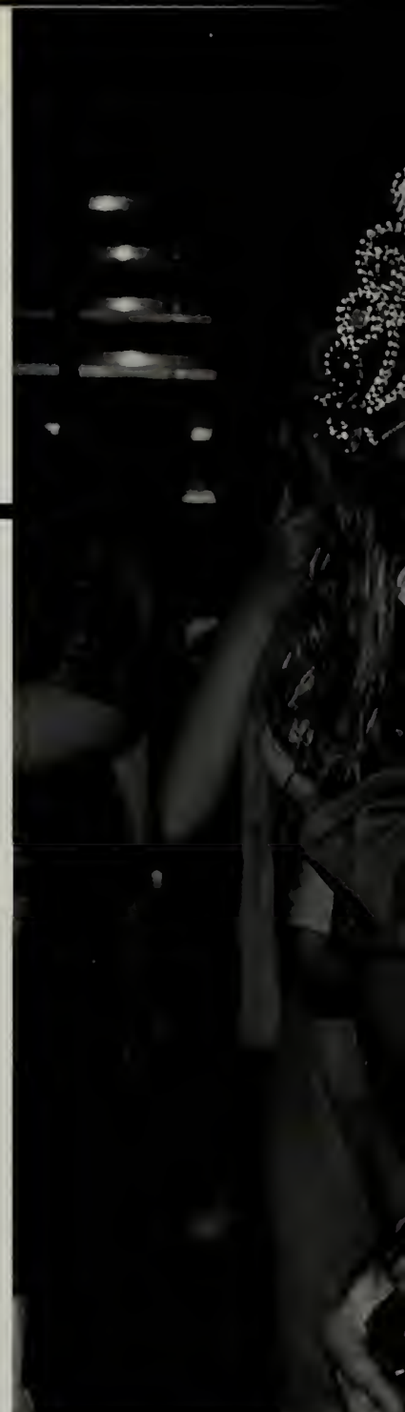
Class History

Unmagical Moments Are History... The Best Is Yet To Come!



Determined to meet our desired destination at Chicopee Comp, we entered the massive brick building our freshman year, quite overwhelmed by the hundreds of older kids who waltzed by us like we didn't even exist. We were in awe over how shiny the floors seemed. How were we supposed to know that would be the only time the floors would be clean all year long? We were freshman and thought the end would never come, and now we're here holding the memories of the past four years. We're at an end, facing a vast new beginning, and for some reason we are sad to leave. We've had so many treasurable experiences along the way that it seems almost impossible to let it all go. Yet we are glad to face a world that can lead us to meet even more challenges. We are ready to conquer our dreams, and on the way everything we've learned and been through in the last four years is going to help get us to where we want to go in later life. We will remember all of the magical times we had and embrace those moments forever. We may be moving on, but we will never have to let go. A part of our hearts will be here forever.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

Coming into Chicopee Comp on the first day of our freshman year was a moment filled with excitement, anxiety, and nerves. We didn't know where classes were, if our lockers would open, or if the seniors would trick us into finding the pool on the 5th floor. We were hoping that there would be at least one recognizable person to sit with at the lunch table. However as the year went on, we adapted to the building, teachers, and rules. We created memories of our first homecoming dance weekend, cotillion at the Delaney House, and Spirit Week. We were the first class to win the butter knife for the freshman football game against Chicopee High School. We had some great times during our first year here at Comp and the magical moments were just beginning.

As we entered sophomore year, we came upon many magical moments, hard times, and faced many new experiences. We were no longer freshmen, but still underclassmen. We were introduced to and got to know our class advisors and officers. They were President Lindsay Folsom, Vice President Julie Kukahiko, Sectretary Stacey Getto, and Treasurer Sarah Therrien. We more than happy to find out that we had Mr. Sheurfeld and Mr. Czaporowski as our class advisors.

This was the year of getting our class rings and being introduced to paying our class dues. We all had to deal with the loss of two classmates, Carly Kane and Nate D'Angelo, which was hard for everyone all around and we learned many lessons. Sophomore year meant two more years until graduation, two more years of hanging out with your old friends and making new ones too. Finally sophomore year meant making two more years of memories that would last forever.

Despite the enormous amount of cans juniors collected, they came in a close second in the can collecting portion of Spirit week.

Junior Year Had its Magical Moments

Junior year started off with our memorable victory over High in football. We won the sword game for the first time in a decade. The game was the highlight of the year-- a close game with intense excitement.

During Spirit week we collected hundreds of cans for the needy, dressed up as cows, and wore yellow to show class spirit. The seniors may have beaten us in overall points for the week, but, in our hearts, we won the Spirit rally.

After a lot of hard work and stress, we arrived at the Sheraton. The prom was a magical moment and a fun-filled night.

Altogether, Junior year seemed the hardest. Between taking PSATS and SATS on long Saturday mornings, or just trying to figure out your future plans, stress and accountability were always there. There was a great deal to be accomplished in a short year. It flew by leaving great memories and room for many more.

-Steph Dykes and Melissa Gagnon

Junior Year the guys made a great attempt to win Powder Puff. Even though the seniors won, we were still proud.

During 3rd lunch, seniors Micky Dumais and Matt Slachetka show off their spirit in the lunchroom. This was taken on Retro Day during Spirit Week.

Best friends Stephanie Marstellar, Chelsea Dube, and Karen Lavarnway get together at Marstellar's house one afternoon. Marstellar and Lavarnway have been best friends since second grade, joined by Dube freshman year.

Relaxing in the hall before going back to class, seniors Jessica Mykytiuk, Ross Domingos, Kim Lawrence, Sarah Therrien, Melissa Swider and Mark Maciolek form a backrub chain. This was taken during a cold day in November, when the group decided to de-stress.

Its Party Time! Seniors Billy Skinner and Mary Baron stop for a big hug during a New Year's party at Mark's house.

Rulers of the school, the seniors and a class advisor gather in the hall during Period One for one last group shot.

During a team dinner at Coach Vyce's house, seniors Kiley Lapointe, Amber Patruno, and Julie Kukahiko gather one last time as teammates. The team did an outstanding job and will miss the graduating seniors.

All smiles after a gymnastics meet, seniors Danielle Maynard, Liz Viets, and Melissa Swider patiently wait to be re-fueled on food. The girls decided to make a pit stop at Burger King after an impressive second place finish.

Looking gorgeous as always, senior girls have the time of their life during the Colleen contest at the K of C on Granby Rd. Shannon Lambert won the Miss Congeniality and made it into the court.

SENIORS

Homecoming, Spirit Week, Proms, and Cotillions. These are just a few of the things that will be in our past as we prepare to leave Chicopee Comp. We ordered class rings, won the spirit week activities, enjoyed our Junior Prom at the Sheraton Hotel in Springfield, and had a blast during Senior Week. What else is left? Graduation! June 8th here we come! The life lessons that we learned here will never be forgotten, and will help us all to succeed in the future. Good luck to all members of the class of 2001. Never forget these magical moments.

-Lindsay Folsom

Showing some affection during class, seniors Ross Domingos and Matt Slachetka take some time out to reminisce about their favorite Comp memories together.

Juniors

Junior year can be the most unforgettable year in high school. First of all there is the realization that you're officially becoming an upperclassman. While this can be an exciting thing for your brain to process, it also means the beginning of the end of the entire high school experience. Sadly, it can also mean more work. Guidance counselors begin asking questions about ideal majors, college choices, and the future. Mostly, it can be exhilarating but at times it can become a bit on the baffling side and leave one to ponder the inner workings of the college system. But, there is good news! There will be a few months of the senior year in which you can work out the fine details of college applications.

During the junior year, most students experience their first prom, which is truly a magical night. It's full of guys in elegant tuxedos, girls in dazzling dresses and curly tresses, corsages, white limousines and slow dancing. It's a night to spend with friends and high school sweethearts, eating food with unusual names and dancing to songs that your parents would refer to as "noise."

Junior year also brings out the good natured rivalry with the senior class. Through the Spirit Week games, rallies, and powder puff cheerleading competition, juniors express friendly competitiveness and, in most cases, good sportsmanship.

Junior year is all about a little bit of work, a little bit of fun, and a whole lot of unforgettable and magical moments. Even after juniors have progressed into senior year and beyond they will carry memories with them and share "remember when..." stories at class reunions. Junior year is a year of laughter and tears and is guaranteed to be held close to the hearts of the class of 2002 for years to come.

-Kelly Malone and Shannon MacNeal

Friends forever and always. Erin Dubois, Stephanie Naumchick, and Devan Daviau show off what good friends they are by leaning in for a group hug in between classes.

Smile, you're on Candid Camera! Stephanie Scott smiles after being cornered by photographers in Room 210. Stephanie is looking forward to being a senior in the 2001-2002 school year.

Goofing around in theatre arts. Dramatic juniors Heather Wenninger, Ashleigh Barrows, and Rachael Pluta, get carried away with a wheelchair in Mr. Brown's class.

Students give their views on school lunch

By Amber Patruno

When it comes to school lunch we all have our different views on it. There is however a bigger variety from what we were used to in elementary and middle school. Each of us has a favorite thing about school lunch.

Sophomore Kelton Westley said, " I like the fries they have." Sophomore Jocelyn Wildman said she likes Doritos on a regular basis. Sophomore Sue Kaafi said, "I like the green apples." Sophomore Stacey Moreau said, "I love the chicken soup and mozzarella sticks." Junior Michael Jimmo said that he likes the teriyaki dippers, and sophomore Jamie Tellier said, "I like the chicken nuggets."

Michael Jimmo

The Comprehensive cafeteria cooks up a large variety of food, while the students enjoy the time out of class.

Students have many choices on what you would like to eat from regular hot lunch to deli, or if you prefer a salad or a bagel, the Comprehensive cafeteria also has a salad/bagel bar. If none of that serves you there are also little options such as nachos, chips and hot pretzels. We also can't forget pasta bar on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

For whatever lunch you choose to eat, you do get a good quality size meal for the cheap price of one dollar. Most students do like the that aspect of school lunch, but the one downfall is the length of it. This could be due to the long lines, but we all manage to work around them and still have time to eat.

Lunch time is the chance to get out the classroom and eat or maybe just hang out with your friends in the hall. Either way it's the time most students look forward to during the day.

Jolly Juniors jump start spirit... Lip Synching contest inspires many Enthusiastically, James Mattson lets out his victory cry! The Juniors proved just how jolly they can be by winning the First Annual Lip Syncing Contest!

Class spirit soaring to the sky. Tie-died funky tees. Snow covered streets. Holiday spirit in the air. Juniors setting the stage for their first win over the seniors? What kind of competition is this? Christmas favorites and pop music form a bittersweet symphony as the team of spirited juniors take the floor for the first annual Lip Sync Contest at the 2000 CCHS Holiday Dance. Dancing up a storm to a jumpin' mix of many new and exciting songs, the juniors brought glory to their class when they first took the floor with their style, skill and grace gleaming. The juniors performed a three minute rendition of their best work while including two minutes of modern pop music and one minute of Christmas music to concur with the contest guidelines. The winning team represented many familiar faces of the junior class. Thanks to their hours of preparation, hard work, diligence and enthusiasm, the juniors were able to go on to the final round against the sophomores. In this final round, a mystery song was played, and an impromptu rendition of the song was performed by each team. After a valiant effort by both classes, the announcement of the winning team was made. After all the totals were tallied, the judges announced that the juniors were the winners of the contest. With no time to spare, the team, accompanied by members of their class, rushed out onto the floor to accept their reward. The reward tonight stretched far beyond the Friendly's gift certificate or the recognition of winning - the true reward earned tonight by every member of that team was the assurance that they had done their best and in their hearts they are truly successful.

Do Students Take On Too Much?

HIGH SCHOOL. To someone who hasn't experienced it, many thoughts may come to mind: scary, fun, parties, graduation, meeting new people. However, most don't expect the stress and responsibility that goes along with their new found freedom. For example, some students take on outside activities such as sports and jobs that conflict with their studies. "In the winter and spring I work right after track and it leaves me no time for homework," commented junior Lea Daigneault. Others like sophomore Melissa Albrecht find high school interesting and not quite so hard. "I do track in both the winter and the spring but I don't find that it conflicts with my homework," said Albrecht.

Involvement in various high school activities can also have a positive effect on the high school experience. Freshman Stephanie Granger claimed that thanks to her involvement in sports she, "met a lot of new people." In addition students can discover what they want out of life by experiencing things first hand. Freshman Melinda Depney gave the advice, "not to worry." Junior Shanelle Trepanier added, "A lot of times I find the work hard, but some of it is easy too."

School activities are popular, but they can also monopolize time that could be spent getting school work done. Many underclassmen enjoy involvement such as sporting events and dances because it's a way for them to interact with their peers. High school brings many new experiences. It can be a lot of fun, but students shouldn't forget they need to balance the responsibilities that go along with it.

- Shauna Albrecht
Sarah Shepard
Heather Wenninger

Juggling academics and athletics, freshman Stephanie Granger manages to maintain her grades and excel in her performance on the indoor track team. Granger broke the record this year for the two mile event and qualified for the Western Mass competition held February 9.

10 - SOPHOMORES - 10

Sophomores in formal gear, ready to dance the night away.

Taking a break from the books, these sophomores hang out on the second floor intersection.

Putting their work aside, Ms. Morrison's Pre-AP 10 English class takes the opportunity to get away from their studies.

Mrs. Starke says about her sophomore english class, "After their wonderful response to the review, I'm sure they'll do well on their midterm."

Still friends after all these years, Amanda Gelinas, Stephanie Bergeron, and Shannon Sears have a group hug. These girls never thought that this sixth grade picture would ever surface again.

Best friends, Liz Goulet and Andrea Chapdelaine, show their love for each other.

Underclassmen create magical sports memories...

Most of the freshman, sophomores, and juniors that play a sport either play on the junior varsity level or the freshmen who play on the freshmen team although there are always a few underclassmen who stick out and shine at the varsity level. Sophomore Zach Siano said, "It's a great opportunity to be able to play with the upperclassmen."

There is always a few kids that are good all around at sports, and play more than one high school sport. Freshman Billy Stewart is a perfect example. Billy played freshman and junior varsity football, but towards the end of the season he was brought up to varsity. He also plays basketball. Billy said, "Although I play two sports, football is my favorite."

Even if the student isn't playing more than one sport, they can still shine at their favorite. "Cheerleading is a huge responsibility and being on varsity is an honor. It takes hard work but the outcome is worth it," said varsity cheerleader Jenna Opsitnick.

More often than not hard work pays off. The underclassmen that do get to play at the varsity level have to try to play at one-hundred percent all of the time, so that he or she can keep his spot.

Discover Your Class Officers...

Class President Alexis Lemieux leads the officers and her class in the many activities at Comp.

The sophomore class officers, along with the help of their advisor, Mr. Casolari, have been working hard to prepare for upcoming school events. At the beginning of the year the sophomore class sold candy bars to raise money towards the class dues. The officers also worked hard in uniting the class for Spirit Week activities. Locations for their Junior Prom are being considered as sophomores begin to make payments toward their class dues.

President Alexis Lemieux says, "I like getting opinions on what my class thinks and I like representing my class." The officers hope that everything they have been planning and working on will turn out to be a success for their class.

A Sense of Belonging

During your sophomore year, The Ring Man comes to Comp. The sophomores have an assembly in which they are given catalogs with a variety of different rings to choose from. Students are faced with many choices of what designs they want on the side of the ring, the color of the stone, and the overall style of the ring. The designs on the side include sports, friends, your school mascot, or your year of graduation. The Ring Man comes back and students choose the ring they want to buy. Students are filled with anticipation until mid-December. When the rings arrived, a pizza party was given after school where the students finally received their rings. Once given their rings, the sophomores finally feel like a part of their school.

FRESHMEN

Freshman year...the beginning of the high school experience. While approaching the building for the first time, most are filled with anticipation. They feel a mixture of excitement and fear as they wonder about what the next four years will have in store for them.

For most students, freshman year holds many memories. Meeting new people, joining sports and/or clubs, and making lasting friendships are all events which can make freshman year truly "magical."

Others remember specific occasions to highlight their freshman year. This year the freshmen defended and kept the butter knife from Chicopee High. The Cotillion and other school dances are other examples of magical moments for freshmen.

Freshman year...a time for people to make memories that can last a lifetime.

Acting like their normal selves, Kenny Roberts, Samantha Bartosz, and Brian Robinson are ready to sneak out the back door.

Lynette Casa and Allysa Spano find that friendship is a "magical" part of freshman year.

Many new faces, many new experiences for the class of 2004

Every year new faces appear in the halls of Comp, the freshmen. It is easy to spot them during the first few weeks of school, but they quickly adjust. This first year is a scary, but still exciting time for the freshmen. Going from being eighth graders in the middle school to freshmen in high school, they found themselves no longer the leaders of the school, but the newcomers.

Being in high school brings many new opportunities, challenges, and more freedom. These are just a few of the things they liked about making the switch to high school.

"I like taking a trade class," stated Ryan Daviau. Gina Cecchetelli and Angela Roy both agree that meeting new people is the best thing about high school." I like the sports and the people," said Robert Dunn.

Many students believe that high school is not as strict as junior high. "It's not a prison," said Krystal Beaulieu. Both Laura Sliwa and Kyle Hajec agreed that "freedom" is what they like the best.

Hopefully throughout the rest of their high school career they will continue to like high school and make great memories.

Freshmen Show Mixed Emotions About Day One

Fear? Excitement? Nervousness? Anxiety? These are all feelings that the new members of the class of 2004 felt on September 1, 2000. The first day of school is filled with many questions such as "Who will be in my classes?," What teachers will I have?," "Will I like my teachers?," etc.

Some freshmen were confident about their first day of school. Samantha Brousseau said, "I wasn't really worried about getting the 'pool on the fourth floor' or the 'arcade in the weight room' pranks pulled on me because I already knew some upperclassmen and they warned me about it." Other freshmen, like Joseph Goulet, said that they were more excited about the people they would meet and the friends that they would make.

And then you have the not so confident freshmen. Some were worried about getting lost, some were worried about the teachers they would have. Kyle DuBois said, "I felt out of place as a freshman, and I was worried that it would be difficult." Theresa Williams was one of the freshmen that happened to get lost during the first few days of school. She said, "It was really weird at first. And I got lost a couple times, but after I figured out where I was going, it got easier."

The class of 2004 exhibited the basic emotions that every new class shows when they first enter high school. The class of 2004 is already looking forward to their senior year and leaving high school behind.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Touchdown! The freshman team scores again. The freshman class is usually known for a lot of things like the way they crowd the halls and the way they try to save seats in the cafeteria, but you hardly ever see them recognized for things other than their "immaturity." Well we decided to change that, at least for this feature in Memini. For the first time ever in the history of CCHS, the freshman class has a great asset that will finally be acknowledged- the freshman football team! These guys always know how to succeed, at least at their game. This year they played hard and had a great season.

This year the team had outstanding leadership through their coach Mike Chmura and captains Jake Vieu, Matt Beaudette, Billy Stewart and Josh Danko. The team had a very fulfilling season with a 6-2-1 record. One of their most important wins had to be the butterknife game where they beat High 20-0.

Vocational

The Vocational Department at Chicopee Comprehensive is like no other. It is filled with many kinds of individuals. The students who are involved in this program have opportunities to explore their minds and work with their skills. This program helps them to be successful in their careers. Some will go off to college, others will join the work force. They can explore in many different fields which are offered. Some examples are electronics, welding, machine shop, and carpentry. These shops had came together and helped to build a home for an assignment. This was a magical moment for them and these individuals which are lucky enough to receive this home. We are very fortunate enough to have this program. We would like to wish luck to all the students and their goals that participate in this program.

Machinery students Andy Ortiz and Brian Alger ask questions from teacher Mr. Cheika on what they should do next for their finishing touches.

Using a protective face mask Brandon Paige uses his skills that he has learned in class to perform his next task.

(Top) With Mr. Cheika's supervision, Justin Whittington learns how to adjust his machine to get the correct adjustment.

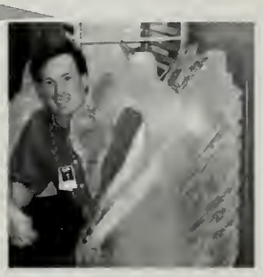
Experience the Magic

The Vocational Department gives the students at Chicopee Comprehensive a great opportunity to explore different fields of work. This department allows them to have a hands-on experience which may help them find a career they may like. The students in the vocational department learn the skills and techniques needed to achieve their goals in the future.

Auto body, horticulture, and carpentry are just three of the many different fields studied at Comp. These students are an important part of our future. Without them, who would fix our cars when something goes wrong? Who would build our houses so that we can have a place to live? Who would cook our food in restaurants when we go out on date? Chicopee Comp is one of few schools that offers their students the choice of taking a vocational class. Many students from neighboring cities go to Comp just to participate in our vocational department. Any body can see that the vocational section is a key factor in the wonderful mixture of students in our precious school.



Amazed by his masterpiece, Jarrod Goss completes his Christmas wreath in his horticulture class.

Looking on with approval, Mr. Cheika helps his students, Josh Batchelor and Sergey Gorobinskiy in Machine Shop.

Riding in style, David Netkovick shows off his driving skills. Vocational classes have given Dave opportunities to try new things.

"What's for lunch?" Danielle Bonafilia and Mark Sadler take a break from all that cooking. In Culinary Arts the students learn to prepare many delicious dishes.

Electronics

Juicing Up The Magical Moments

Money talks! Well, at least the Electronic students are aware of that. Being an electronic technician can get you fourteen dollars an hour to start off or much more. Yes, it is true: your yearly income can range from $40,000 a year to $70,000 or more if you have the right skills. That's why Mr. Stefanowicz, who's been teaching Electronics for over twenty years, is so anxious to feed his sophomores the basic learning path of Electronics. He will be teaching them how to build multimeters and power supplies that they will later use for the introduction to computer repair and cabling later in the year.

But the sophomores aren't the only ones who know that an Electronics career is where the $dollar signs$ are at. The juniors and seniors are aware of it too and should keep this in mind while learning Cisco Networking and Fiber Optics this year; technicians in that field of Electronics are highly needed. Mr. Ziemba has been teaching Electronics for 18 years and hopes that his teachings will help the students graduating from the Electronics program to get the jobs they like at the salaries they desire.

- Crystal Murray
Contributions from Mr. Stefanowicz and Mr. Ziemba

Preparing the fibers, Mr. Ziemba shows Chris Kubetin how to tighten the tips for Fiber Optics. After tightening he will have to polish the ends of the fiber.

Fixing the floppy, Ryan Tellier carefully places the floppy drive back into the C.P.U.

Hoping it works, Josh Ulen looks into the microscope to see if there's any imperfections in his fiber. He will then use the fiber to see how well radio waves flow through it.

Checking the current, Kevin LaFlamme and Jon Pope troubleshoot the picture tube.

Pumping up the power, Monica Marcil cranks up the power on the power switch board.

Electrical

Lighting Up The Moments

Is there a light out in your classroom? No need to worry. The juniors and seniors of the Electrical Shop have got it under control. They have been sent from Mr. Petrucelli to add new circuitry and to troubleshoot any and all electrical problems at Chicopee Comprehensive High School. They are also in charge of wiring the new welding booths for the Welding/Metal Fabrications Shop and building the new computer room for the Electronics Shop. Learning while doing real work is the best approach in Electrical Shop.

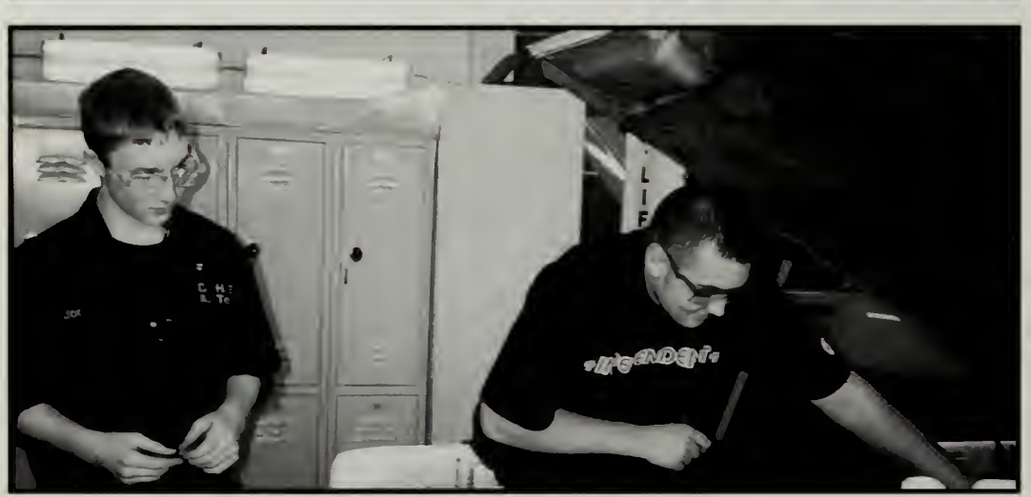
-Crystal Murray
With contributions from Mr. Petrucelli

"Breaking" on the job, David Netkovick, Tony Plasse, and Greg Mernard pause from building the new Electronics computer room to fix the light fixtures.

Wiring the outlets, Pavel Gorobinskiy (standing) and Jeremy Roldan (squatting) work diligently.

Always lending a helping hand, Luis Camacho fixes the table saw in Carpentry.

Lying with caution under the car, Bernard Jones carefully changes oil.



Making sure everything is going well, Joe O'Sullivan watches as Tom Joly puts anti-freeze into the coolant system.

Looking on, Nick Mcdonald watches from inside the car as James Hortie and John Bingle check spark plugs and do a tune up.

Popping the hood, Scott Green, gets ready to change the fuel on a car.

Auto Technology

Sparks fly in AutoTechnology

Auto Technology is taught by Mr. Williams and Mr. Syriac. They teach the students shop safety, brakes, basic electrical and engine performance. They teach them how to do brake jobs and how to use a digital volt ohm meter to diagnose electrical problems. They also learn how to use engine analyzer and how to take apart and reassemble an engine.

Students use tools such as an open-end wrench to a sophisticated scan tool. They also use hydraulic jacks, air wrenches, car lifts and battery charges. Hydraulic lifts and car lifts are used for lifting cars off the ground to be able to work under the car.

Finally, students are given projects such as brake jobs, mounting and balancing tires, rotating tires, rebuilding engines and oil changes.

-Chrissy Sheehan and Shanelle Trepanier

Sanding to perfection. Nathan Mercier sands a car fender, one of the many jobs that the students learned in the shop.

lard at work, Carlos Rosario used a sanding pow to sand a ood. A sanding pow is one of the many tools used by udents in the shop.

Getting ready to start a paint job. Scott Franceschina and Jeremy Woods are masking a vechicle before a paint job.

Almost ready to start painting a car. Bryan Bengle masks the vehicle before painting. Masking is a technique used to prepare for a paint job.

Auto Body

Magic revs up in Auto Body

Auto Body is taught by Mr. Perez and Mr. Lapite. They teach the students how to detail cars, such as buffing, waxing, and vacuuming. They both also teach you basic collision technology, involving removing and replacing damaged parts. They use certain kinds of tools such as sanders, air grinders, spray guns, and welders.

Paint jobs and collision repair are some of the projects that students complete during the year.

-Chrissy Sheehan and Shanelle Trepanier

Carpentry

Carpentry students are on their way to new and magical things

Students in carpentry classes are taught many different methods in carpentry. Topics that are covered and discussed in classes are foundations, floor framing, and wall and ceiling framing. Exterior and interior finishes are covered by students as well as roof framing. Students in carpentry are busy with projects throughout the year, such as the gazebo in the courtyard across from the cafeteria. These projects are interesting and help the students with the responsibilities of being a carpenter.

-Mary Baron and Danielle Converse

While showing off his carpentry skills, Mr Stykiewicz tells students in his classes the proper procedures for being the perfect carpenter.

Drama students also get a chance to be carpenters. Christine Major and Tiffany Roberts work on their set for drama under close supervision.

Drilling inro dry wall in carpentry, Ben Adams and Dan McCarey learn many different aspects in classes that will help them later on in their lives of carpenters.

While trimming out sheet rock for an outlet in carpentry, Aaron Lafond and Edgar Ramos think about what to do next.

Landscaping

Students in horticulture help out around the school

Students are enrolled in learning general landscaping and greenhouse skills. Projects are seasonal and do encompass CCHS itself. One ongoing project is the courtyard opposite the cafeteria. Plant materials have begun to be installed as well. Planting will continue in the spring as well as a pond with a waterfall in the near future as well. Outside projects included hydroseeding around the new playground structure at Bowie School. Students assisted in the effort with the use of the shop tractor and other equipment. This goes with the usual yearly projects for the city. Students completing the course have had success in finding employment in the field or fields closely related.

-Mary Baron and Danielle Converse

utting decorations on her finishing project, Katie O'Keefe nds out what to do next. Students made many of these rojects in the greenhouse located next to the cafeteria.

Vhile trimming the ends off of branches, Shaun Murphy vill use them as part of his project later on in class.

Working hard in the greenhouse, Nathan Bean, Eric Elie, Catherine Johnson, and Honey Lacaprucia make Christmas wreaths out of shrubbery in class.

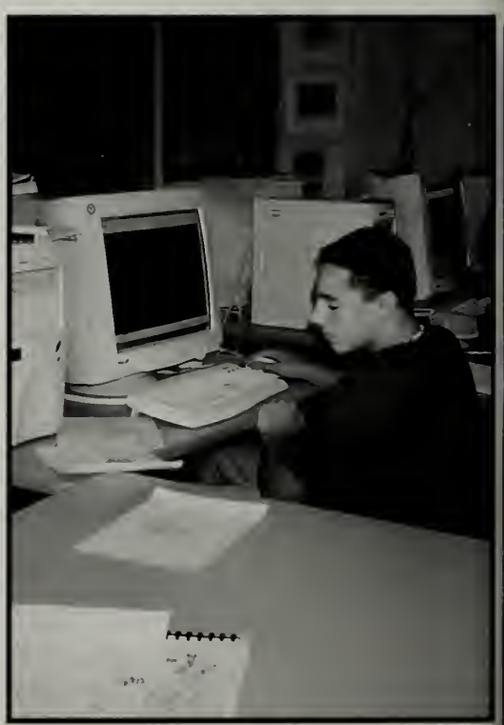
Hard at work on his trebuchet project, senior Brian Bonafilia makes the finishing touches on his design. The drafting classes are working with Mr. Clark's Physics classes on the annual egg launching project.

Making sure she gets everything just right, junior Heather Boyington concentrates hard on detailing the trebuchet that she is working on.

Always lending a helping hand, Mr. Ingram assists senior Nicole Picard on detailing her trebuchet design.



Working hard or hardly working? Senior Jason Siudak concentrates on making his Physics class project perfect.

DRAFTING
THE BEST YEARS OF OUR LIVES

The drafting technology students work on various types of projects throughout the year. They designed and constructed coffee tables in the cabinet shop, worked on trebuchet designs for the Physics classes, and designed carports. Using the skills they've learned in this class, students go on to be successful in interior design, CAD operating, and being a CAD draftsperson. Students this year went on many field trips to STCC, the new building site of the Pride Convenience store on Montgomery St., and a post office construction site in Granby to get a hands-on experience. Mr. Ingram had a lot of fun teaching the academic students how architectural designs can be done on CAD. One of the things that students like about this class is that they get to learn how to draw different mechanical things on the computer and have fun at the same time.

-Nicole Theroux and Meghan Deitz

phomore Mark Sadler tests out his kneading skills while king whole wheat bread from scratch.

ve your cake and eat it too! Sophomore Jose Lopez cuts carrot cake he made from scratch for the Department of ucation lunch.

"Would you like some more coffee with your brekafast?" Sophomores Yaritza Martinez and Stephanie Shirk practice serving. Aside from cooking, the students also learn proper serving technique.

Bon appetit! Sophomore Jazmine Berrios prepares her scrumptious vegetarian lasagna.

CULINARY ARTS
COOKS UP THE MEMORIES

Students in the culinary courses obtain the skills needed to further their education in the food service field. They learn about many situations dealing with the operation of a restaurant. The students cater many of Compacino's functions as well as the faculty Christmas party, advisory board meetings, and graduation ceremonies. Students also get to create and take home their own gingerbread houses during the holiday season. A field trip was taken to Springfield Technical Community College and the elective students are going to Hofbrauhaus to enjoy a meal. The new elective course, Foods of the World, started this year. Students seem to enjoy the class.

- Nicole Theroux and Meghan Deitz

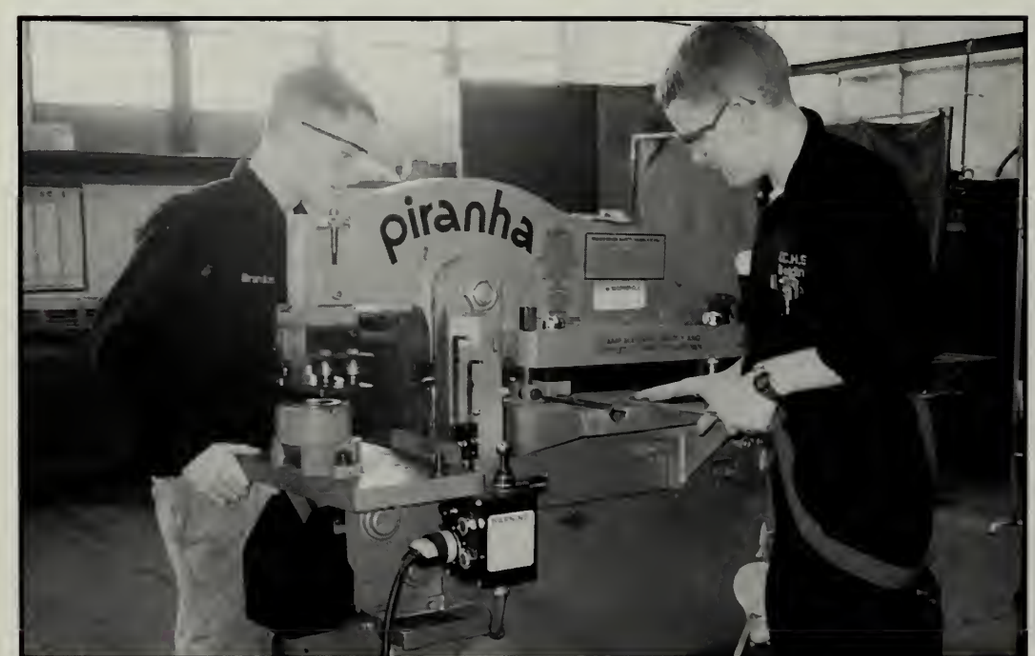
WELDING
Together The Memories

As a freshman in welding you are taught the very basics, and a wind chime is the first project of many you will make if you decide to tackle this shop for the next three years. Sophomores learn the fundamentals of welding at the beginning of the year and move onto ornamental iron work as the year progresses. The juniors in this shop work on more complex projects such as making chairs, benches, or other complex objects. This year the main project is the fence around the green house. Seniors in this shop are able to leave the school for work study projects to obtain real world experience. This experience is mutually beneficial for the students and local companies, including Ace Metal Fabrications Inc., Chicopee Welding and Tool Co., and Notch Welding and Mechanical Inc.

Safety first is the motto as Brian Garwon puts on his helmet and melts his way through the day's work.

The term "All work and no play..." has no meaning in this class. As Matt Weibel puts Derek Duclos in a head lock while Brian Gawron and JD Chancery assist.

Brian Gawron looking sexy as Matt Weibel and Brandon Lamoureux look at him in amazement.



Team work is the word as Brian Gawron and Brandon Lamoureux work together on their project.

Machine Tech/ Metal Fabrications

Making Memories That Last

Going in as a freshman in Voc. Explore you are given the instructions to make a yo-yo which is the first of many projects if you decide to stay in this shop. As a sophomore, you are shown the machines you will be using for the next three years and how to use them. As juniors and seniors you will be taught the programming for engineering technology and start to make more complex things such as skeeball and pinball machines, pool tables, and a chess set. They also do city projects. A couple years ago they made paper weights for Chicopee Electric Light Department that they gave to all their customers for the holidays. Also, when Channel 22 came to Chicopee, Mayor Kos called upon the Machine Tech. class at Comp to make a special key to the city for them. To say thank you for their hard work, the students were invited to the presentation ceremony and proudly display the key in their front entrance.

Peter Bashinskiy takes a momentary break from his lathe to look at the stunning yearbook personnel.

Working to set his drill properly Mike Jarmuzewski must be careful not to mess up.

The two shops join forces as Nick Golba helps to fix a port for auto body.

Learning the right way to do it, Amanda Tiner looks on as Mr. Caroll teaches her the proper use of the Partner 1 CNC.

The Magic of Clubs & Activites

Clubs and Activities offer many paths for students to follow. The activities can help the students prepare for their future careers. The clubs are also there for the students who just want to have fun.

The Clubs that are offered in this school can help the students prepare for careers ranging from working with computers to the art field. Being in the National Honor Society or Student Council, the students learn how to prepare for the professional work place and the stresses that follow.

Members of the GSA march in the Gay Pride parade held in Boston.

The activities will provide the students with memories that will last a lifetime. During spirit week, the student council organizes many unforgettable moments that the entire school can enjoy. Members of the band have band trips and various concerts they will never forget. In the future, the students may draw on their experiences in various Clubs and Activities to help them decide what they want to do in life.

Student Council officers band together to show their unity. They will continue to plan upcoming school events.

Enjoying their ride home after acquiring their medals from the competition, members from the Academic Decathlon James Mattson, Stephanie Naumchick, Kathryn Meade, and Jon Garrity are all very proud of themselves.

Yearbook staff members Melissa Gagnon, Amy Skorka, Tiffany Robert, Stephanie Dykes, and Danielle Maynard gather around to share observations about their yearbook pages. Danielle Maynard said, "I'm glad I took this class, it gave me the opportunity to be part of the yearbook my senior year."

Agruing the finer points of search and seizure laws on this year's privacy topic, Steven Trznadel cross examines Ann Marie Bock in debate.

Student Council shows leadership...

What school organization represents the student body and improves student life with activities? "The Student Council." Student Council advisor Susan Feyre showed her dedication by helping out with student leadership conferences, Tuesday meetings, fundraisers and special assemblies. Mrs. Feyre is always there to help and give great ideas.

The student council meets every Tuesday after school with President Nikki Rosienski, Vice President Sarah Fitzgerald, Treasurer Heather Ecker, and Secretary Laura Allen. They also had assistance from marketing, morning music and special events officers. "I thought it was great that we had the size council we did this year. We were also lucky to have many members that were very active and were such a big help. Another thing that was great was the help I received from my officers who were always there with me even if it meant being to school early or staying after school for an hour," expressed Nikki Rosienski.

Missy Aston works with Jessica Kaeding to make posters for our annual Pledge for Peace campaign at one of our weekly meetings.

Student Council began the year by helping out with Freshman orientation, followed by homecoming events including a dance. Open house came next in November. Also in the fall the 3rd annual "Pledge for Peace" campaign began to help our school stay violence free. Events throughout the school year were a holiday dance held in December, spirit week activities as well as a spring celebration for all those students who signed our pledge to stay violence free. This year's guest motivational speaker was Cary Trivanovich from California. As the year came to an end, the annual ice-cream party was a great way to wish the seniors well as their graduation day came very quickly which meant saying good-bye to the senior officers.

Showing their school spirit at a fall conference, members Angela Bouchard, Jeremy Bruso, Heather Ecker, Tracy Lemanski and James Mattson cheer against Turner Falls High School to show whose school has the most spirit. Th conference was held at Turners Falls High School.

"Student council is another great place to meet people," says junior member Jeremy Lepsch. Jeremy is trying to make it look like he is helping sophomore Lynne Lapierre do her work, but he's really working on getting her number. He's not that slick, Lynne doesn't give in.

"Yearbook as a journalism class allows the individual to explore the hidden and unkown talents while discovering the fun of Memini."- Anne-Marie Bock

Special bonds can be created in yearbook as Shauna Albrecht and Heather Wenninger show us with a big smile. They prove that yearbook can be fun even though it's hard work

Deep in thought, Crystal Murray and Alicia Laterreur finish up some last touches on their pages. A lot of thought goes into making a great yearbook page.

Using techniques taught by Mr. Brown, Angela Thatcher and Kim Lawrence share new ideas for their layout. Together they work hard to get the job done.

Shouting out ideas at Mr. Brown and trying to get yours heard is a typical beginning of a yearbook class. Laura Allen, Anne-Marie Bock, and Yona McPherson have yet another bright idea to share with the class.

Being on the yearbook staff has helped me to find something I am good at as well as enjoy. I have finally found my way of being involved in our school." - Valarie Perreault

"What the hell was I thinking?" Yona McPherson said smiling.

Putting their minds together Chrissy Sheehan and Shanelle Trepanier collaborate and divide their work to get their pages ready for deadline; they must cooperate and use teamwork skills to get the job done.

Accompanied by Mr. Brown, Yona McPherson inputs her ideas into the computer. With his brilliant mind at work, he helps Yona to achieve perfection.

Yearbook Captures...

The Lasting Memories

Future leaders, among the top students in their class, Laura Allen and Lindsey Folsom have worked hard this year to make Memini 2001 the best yearbook we will ever see. Both editors have taken much of their own time to assist others with their pages and are always willing to help. Being editor of the yearbook is stressful, important, but of course fun. They are responsible for making sure everything gets done and gets done right. "In my class this year the editor became an assistant teacher, taking the initiative to solve problems, anticipate upcoming events, and instruct other students in the class. I couldn't have done it without her," stated Mr. Brown when asked about Laura Allen.

Together again, our editors Laura Allen and Lindsey Folsom are dedicated and hard working. This yearbook would not be possible without their guidance and assistance.

New technology has played a major role in the making of Memini 2001. New computers, software, different teaching styles, and new ways of learning have helped to create a more sophisticated and modern yearbook. For example, new and exciting graphics have been able to contribute to a more visually pleasing book. The new software has made it possible to modernize old ideas and to spark new ones. Being on the yearbook staff is a fun way to get involved in our school.

Up-To-Date With...
PUBLICATIONS

The students in Mr. Stachura's fourth period Publications class have worked throughout the year keeping Comp up-to-date with the school newspaper, better known as the Comp Chronicle. The thirteen member staff covered a wide-range of topics, writing stories about car break-ins, the Napster/Metallica battle, the successful Big E concerts, and the 2000 Election. The staff introduced a new article called "Comp's Car Of The Month" in its first issue of the school year.

With a smaller staff then last year and senior Stephanie Olech as the only returning staff member, Mr. Stachura had his work cut out for him. He taught his students the ins and outs of editing, writing stories, catchy headlines, and the computer program so that they would have a successful year with the Comp Chronicle. He chose to name no editor-in-chief, allowing the class to come up with group ideas and settle on decisions together. This set-up worked well and brought the staff closer together.

Senior Michael Dwyer stated that he likes being able to write about activities and issues in our school, as well as keeping the student body well informed. A fellow staff member, sophomore Sara Strzempek added that it was fun picking out various topics to write about. Caitlyn Davidson, an aspiring journalist, said the class proved to be helpful and inspiring. Kristyn Vermette agreed, stating that "it's quite interesting... it expands your writing abilities."

The publications class had an all together successful year keeping the student body up-to-date with the Comp Chronicle.

Working hard, class officers lead our classes

The class officers like being able to be involved with their class They like to plan events and help their class have a good experience. You have to be able to keep good records and be really organized to be a good class officer.

"I feel privileged to be senior class president because you are elected by your own class. It is also fun to work with the advisors and other class officers to plan all the activities. But it is a lot of work and many people don't realize all of the time the we spend planning fund-raisers, proms, senior week, etc." commented Senior Class President Lindsay Folsom on what it is like to be a class officer.

"I wanted to become a class officer because I believe that I can make a difference in our class. I wanted to be involved in the school. I am an open minded person and I listen to people and their opinions," said Junior Class President Krystal Bujnicki on why she wanted to become a class officer.

Peer Education teaches elementary students

In Peer Education a group of students, led by Physical Education Department Head Steve Lemanski, dedicate their time going to elementary schools and teaching the students about growing up. Some of the topics they talked about were drugs, alcohol, peer pressure, respect and self-esteem. Most of the students involved in Peer Education said they love to interact and teach the little kids.

"In the future I am looking forward to becoming an elementary school teacher, and I love interacting with kids and knowing I make a difference," commented Kara Sullivan on why she joined Peer Education.

Solving problems of our student body

Peer Mediation is a group of dedicated students, led by Mediation Coordinator Mike Larkin, who help keep Comp a peaceful environment. Peer Mediators help settle differences and disputes among our school. At the present time there are exactly 70 students involved with Peer Mediation, as well as 16 adults.

"You don't have to choose sides in a mediation, which cause less problems and I also like that people turn to me as a problem solver," stated peer mediator Chris Rodriguez on what he likes best about mediation.

Mr. Larkin stated, "I think Peer Mediation has been successful. We haven't settled every fight but we have settled most of them."

Wise Decisions Aid in Students' Wellbeing

Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) is a group of students that help make the students and public aware of the consequences of their actions. The group deals mostly with drunk driving and its affect on the community surrounding them. Activities that occur throughout the year , according to advisor Mrs. Julie Pavoni include, a three on three basketball tournament in the winter, and the Pledge Drive which took place in the spring. Also the day of the dead which is a project that is combined with the peer education group. "SADD is a good way for us all to get involved in the need of trying to stop drunk driving," concluded sophomore Brittany Maciolek.

"They are alive!" Students involved in "The day of Living Dead" are reminded of what could happen if they are involved in a drinking and driving situation.

MultiCultural Club Makes It Known The World Is Different

The Multi-Cultural Club deals with the different customs from around the world. We try to get educated as much as possible by using outside resources, such as museums. We also try to get involved with other students around the world so we can get an idea of what it's like to be a teenager in a different country. Since the majority of the students in club are Hispanic, we try to focus on modern Spanish-American customs and issues and how we can work as a group to make it better. Our goal is to understand the different cultures around the world.

Students listen and discuss world issues as Mr. Fontanez relates to them about different customs.

Aides Help Make Resources More Accessible

The main purpose of the library aides is to help make the Librarians' job easier and make more information accessible to students. The Library Aides help shelf books and help students look for information using the computers. Kathryn Menard, a library aide, has helped bring our library to the student body along with the public by forming a new web page on our school's home page. The web page includes what books we have and information we can offer along with a survey for students' input.

Magic Of The Minds Sweeps Over CCHS...

Academic Teams Cast Their Spell

Hours of devotion and commitment lead these teams to their victories. They wouldn't call their intellectual moments magical, but such moments are often just as exciting and memorable. After all, how could they forget their weeks of preparation towards their time of fame? Whether it's debate, REACH, or As Schools Match Wits, these teams know how to formulate moments of shining glory. They've all had a great year and have the memories to prove it.

Mr. Brown's debate team showed great enthusiasm throughout the season. This year's topic was protection of privacy, and the team has researched a wide variety of legal, social, and political issues inside and out. The Reach team may have been smaller than usual, but it definitely had just as much strength as in the past. As Schools Match Wits had a very challenging season competitively, but it was made of four kids that stretched their abilities and gave it all they had.

Mr. Czaporowski, advisor of As Schools Match Wits, has worked hard preparing his team.

Whether they remember the labor of researching and preparing, the fun times they had at practices, or the great times they had at the meets and competitions, they will never forget this years many challenges. They will also remember their coaches and team members that helped individually along the way. Congratulations to the teams and their devoted commitment. Let's hope they go far in the future.

NHS... A Time to Acknowledge Achievement

To be accepted into the National Honor Society is an amazing achievement. In order to be a member of NHS, a student must have a grade point average of an 85 or better. The student must maintain this GPA throughout the year.

Not only does this group of well-rounded students strive for academic excellence, they also contribute to their community. The students must complete 20 hours of community service and work together as a group on community activities.

This year NHS had a total of 54 members, 37 seniors, and 17 juniors. The officers of NHS were President Aubrey Gomes, Vice President Shauna Albrecht, Secretary Sabrina Cote, and Treasurer Michael Dwyer. The induction ceremony was held on December 5, 2000.

The National Honor Society also expects each and every member to display its ideals: scholarship, character, leadership, and service.

Ms. Lori Parzych, the advisor of NHS, has been involved in the program for three years. Her dedication to NHS and its members is very noticable. She gives one hundred percent attention, dedication, and time to each and every member and every activity of NHS.

And This One Time, at Band Camp...

What do you think of when someone mentions the band? Do you think of the uniforms, the people you know in it, or that infamous line from "American Pie?" Or do you think about the hard work the members put in to put on a good concert or field show, the actual field show the band puts on, or when their next concert is? A majority of people probably think about the first things that were mentioned. But there is a certain class of people that think about the hard work, the dedication, and the concerts. And that class of people is the band and colorguard.

According to senior Anne-Marie Bock, "Music is a higher excellence that only inspirational people can experience." The concerts and field shows that the band and colorguard perform require hard work and practice. Learning the songs and routines is just as hard as learning the plays for a game. Band and colorguard is like a sport. They have practices and competitions. The only difference is you don't get cut.

Band and colorguard is a place for everyone. Everyone in the band and colorguard centers around one place, around one room - the band room. To most of the people in the school the band room is just the room next to Cafeteria A, but to the people in the band and colorguard it's a sanctuary, a meeting hall, the place you meet your friends in the morning. It's the one place that they can go to and know that they belong.

Besides music, band is about forming relationships with people and knowing you will keep those relationships for the rest of your life. One common thing numerous band and colorguard members have said is that band and colorguard are places for you to make new friends. Senior Lucas Allain said, "Band is fun. You come and see that it isn't full of strangers, just friends you've never met." Sophomore colorguard member Sara Rogers said that band and colorguard are like a family. She's right, it is like a family. Freshman band member Margarita Rivera said, "Band is cool because you get to travel and make new friends."

The band and colorguard are two groups of hard working people with a bond between them. All the members help each other out and are there for each other. So next, when you think of the band and colorguard, don't think about the uniforms, don't think about the jokes. Think of the hard work. Think of the people in it.

Making Theatre Magic In...

The Drama Club

Lights! Camera! Action... almost. The Drama Club erupts into giggles as James Mattson struts his stuff on stage. Even the advisor, Ms. Moonyean Field, can't keep a straight face while she tells James to stay in character. Just a typical day of rehearsal.

The club started off the year with the children's Christmas play, Santa and The Three Bears, with a cast including four elves, the Claus', a family of bears, Goldilocks, and a mute reindeer named George. After their December 1st performance at the annual tree lighting ceremony, the club toured at middle schools, bringing activity into full swing.

In February the club presented its one-act play festival featuring Cinderella, The Whole Shebang, and My Gypsy Robe. Two of the three plays were student directed by junior Stephanie Naumchick and seniors Anne-Marie Bock, Kelly Malone, and Stephanie Janocha. The last time Ms. Field allowed students to direct was for the 1998 one-act festival, but when the four actresses asked for a shot a directing she agreed to give them a chance. Sophomore Andrea Chapdelaine thinks "the student directed one-act plays are an important step forward in the Drama Club's future."

The club also took the opportunity to attend the New England Theatre Conference in Hartford, Connecticut. They participated in workshops for improvisation, prop making, pantomime, story telling, makeup, and set design. All who went agreed it was fun, although there were a few mishaps... like who could forget Robert Theriault's "graceful" demonstration of motor skills and James Mattson's stalker friend?

But it's not just about scripts, sets, costumes, props, and makeup. It's about friendship, laughter, smiles, and a closeness that can only be achieved through auditions and weeks of rehearsals under hot stage lights. There's always a shoulder to cry on, a joke to share, a story to tell, a friendly hug, small talk to calm backstage jitters and memories that will last a lifetime. "Some of the best people are in the Drama Club... James Mattson and Missy Hamel, for instance. You'll never find a more comical pair," said senior Kelly Malone.

The club's officers did a great job leading the club during its successful year. The officers were President Missy Hamel, Vice President Heather Ecker, Treasurer Anne-Marie Bock, and Secretary James Mattson. They were supportive of the club members and showed excellent examples of leadership throughout the year. All in all, the year was full of fun and theatre magic. -Kelly Malone and Valerie O'Neil

Unlocking the Door to the Community... the Key Club

Many of you have probably wondered, "What exactly is the Key Club?" The Key Club is a Community Service Club that does fundraising or volunteering time for any charitable organization. Ms. White, the advisor of the Key Club shares how she feels this club helps the students. "It gives them leadership and involves them in the community in making a difference."

In order to be a part of the Key Club, you must complete 50 hours of community service throughout the school year. At the meetings you have to be dedicated in coming up with ideas for fundraisers, and finding out what organizations and agencies need help. The members of the club then sign up to support those activities in need of help, and proceeds in completing his 50 hours of community service.

The officers of the Key Club include President Julie Hogan,Vice- President Cheri Rosienski, Secretary James Mattson, Treasurer Stephanie Bergeron, Public Relations Alexis Lemieux, Membership Coordinator Mike Dwyer, and Project Coordinator Maria Michaelakis.

Anxious to start working on their web pages, members of the Computer Club, Anthony Fortunato, Laura Paul, Damon Ritter, and Welisarage Fernando listen intently to Ms. Gil's instructions. She is trying to help the group learn how to format pictures from the digital camera and then apply them to the school's web page. "I think this is interesting, it helps me learn a lot more about computers, and it's fun," commented freshman Paul.

Exploring the World with the Computer Club

Many of us may wonder what type of work gets done by the computer club. The group works very hard after school every Tuesday preparing our school's web page. They search for graphics and things to add to the site, and prepare new pages to update things a bit.

Club advisor Ms. Gil said, "I think it's a great way for students to interact with the computer technology. They get their work done, learn, and have fun all at the same time. I love teaching them and seeing how they put what they've learned into their work by making the web pages for the Chicopee Comprehensive web page. Many times they are not the only ones who are learning something, these kids have a thing or two to teach me about the computers and web page designing."

With the use of new digital cameras, much more can be done with the computer. Many new pictures are being added from different school events such as the Homecoming Dance, and Cotillion, and there are many more to come with the other events throughout the school year.

One member of the computer club, Brandon Page, gives his input on how he feels about the Computer Club."I really enjoy coming here after school. It gives us something to do instead of just sitting around at home. All of the kids in the club have the same interest in computers and we learn a lot by interacting with each other through what we learn and do." Freshman Laura Paul stated, "Ms. Gil is a great teacher, she knows a lot about what we are doing and we all have fun together."

The Computer Club puts a lot of hard work into what they do on the school's web page. So next time you wonder what it is they do, take a look at the school's page, and appreciate what is there.

Academic Decathlon competes in events throughout the year

Eighteen Chicopee Comprehensive High School students participated in the sixteenth annual Western Massachusetts Academic Decathlon at Pittsfield High School, sponsored by the Elfun Society and General Dynamics Defense Systems. The team competed against other secondary schools from across Western Massachusetts, including Chicopee High, Holyoke Catholic, Wahconah, Lee, Taconic, Drury, Granby, Pittsfield, and Agawan High School.

Although the top four school were close in their overall scores, Wahconah and Drury will represent Western Massachusetts in the state wide event to be held in January. Comp finished fourth in Western Massachusetts but individual students racked up a school record fourteen medals. " I was extremely pleased with our performance," said team coach Stefan Czaporowski.

CCHS Medal winners were seniors Christopher Pudelko, who won a bronze medal in both the math and economics categories, and Matthew St. Laurent who won a pair of bronze medals for math and music. Junior medal winners were Jonathan Garrity, who won a bronze medal in science and a silver medal in music, Kathryn Meade, who won three individual silver medals in economics, essay, and math, James Mattson, who won a gold medal for math, and Stephanie Naumchick, who was awarded a bronze medal for the language and literature portion of the event. Sophomores Jessica Hoffman and Alyssa Rallis added three more medals to the team's total. - Amber Patruno and Stephanie Marstellar

On the bus, excited about the competion, Alissa Rallis and Chelsea Harris put their game faces on.

After hours of coaching the competition, the only thing on Mr. Czaporowski's mind right about now is "Are we home yet?"

"Aren't we hotties?" Juniors Andrew Lamothe and Jeremy Cote sit back and relax on the way to the competition.

As Our Dreams Come True.... We Create Magical Moments

Sports. Every season, we hear of great athletic feats in all sports, but many times we don't see those great plays first hand. Fortunately, some of those special moments can be captured as magical moments. A couple magical moments of this year were the varsity football team beating West Springfield, the best team in their league. For the hockey team, they really turned around this year and won their division and earned a fifth place seed in the Western Mass tourney. As for the boys' basketball team, freshman Ryan Franczek shot the game winning three pointer at the buzzer. Last but not least, the girls' soccer team made the Western Mass Tournament and won their first tourney game. All of these teams had magical moments.

Each and every player no matter what the scoreboard happened to reflect was certainly victorious in some way. Small victories like staying on the beam through the whole routine and hitting your first home run can all eventually lead up to magical moments.

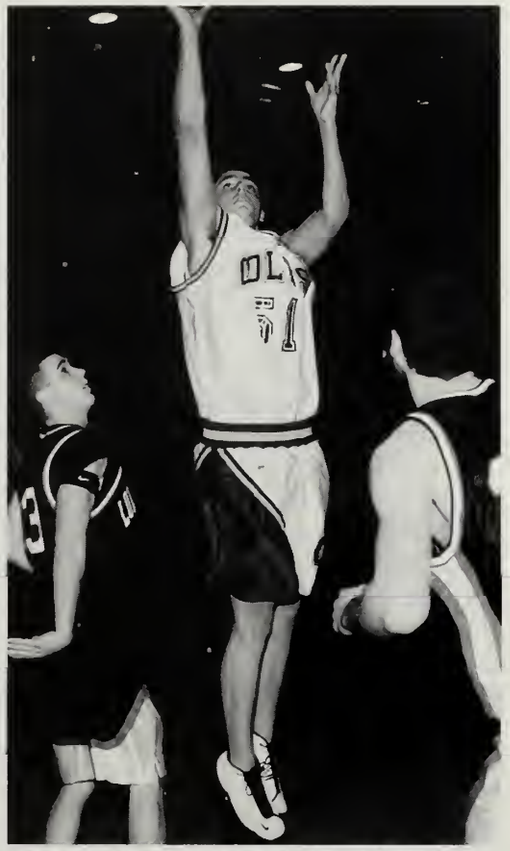
Looking at the world from an upside down view, sophomore Stephanie Courchesne performs a back-walk over at an everyday practice.

"Line it up Franczek!," says Jeff Goss to teammate Justin Franczek. Both boys had an exceptional season.

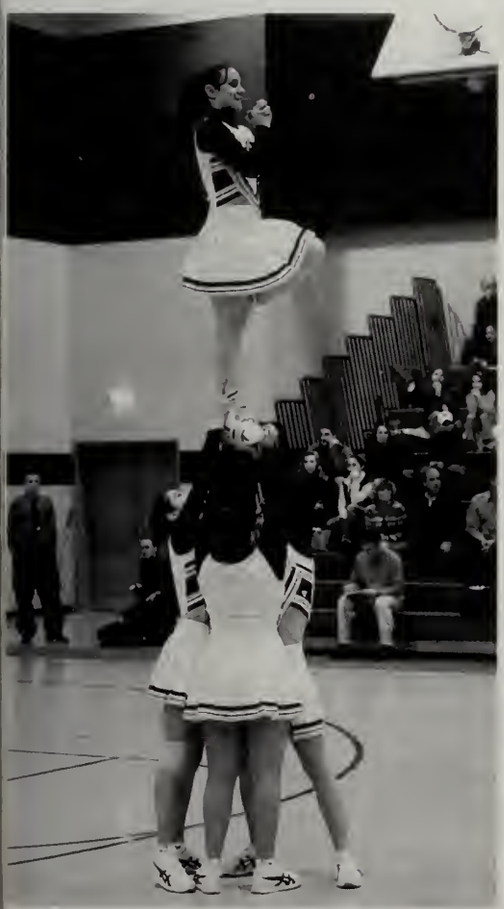
Running their hardest, Jordan Pare followed by Dave Fredette lead the way. The two runners ran a great race and finished in first and second place.

"Go, go Kyle Krow!" In a game against East Longmeadow, Kyle played a strong defense by stealing the ball from his opponent.

Senior center Kiley Lapointe goes up strong for two points against West Springfield. This game was one of the 12 Colt wins this year.



Senior center Curt Kosirog goes for a layup during the Longmeadow game. Curt was the dominating force in the paint all season long for the Colts, and he proved to be one of the top players in Western Mass.



Being held high in the air, sophomore Alexis Lemieux cheers loud and clear at a home basketball game.

Senior Donnell Boucher tries to maneuver his way around this Chicopee High defender. The Colts played a great game, and kept their hearts in it, until the very end. Donnell had an excellent season, scoring seven touchdowns.

Looking back-a season to remember

The Colts 2000 football season was definitely an unforgettable one. The season consisted of good times and bad ones. Coach Schuerfeld put the season in his words and said, "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times," and it was. The season started well with a win over Agawam, followed by losing the sword to High. It took a few more games to click together, but the team did. A big part of the team's turnaround was a shutout against Greenfield. The team came together and started communicating and picking up on the other team's plays. The coaches constantly repeated, "It's laid out in front of you, it's up to you, what you do with it is your choice. You control your own destiny."

It all came down to the last three games of our season, East Longmeadow, West Side, and South Hadley. Winning these three games would have put Comp in the Super Bowl. The East Longmeadow game was a successful one with a great goal line stand that will be remembered by all.

And then Comp was looking to play West Side. Everyone said that they were one of the best. Our line consisting of All League senior co-captain Matt Slachetka and seniors Rich Gadoury, James Castner, Justin Lafountain, DL Peterkin, Mike Atwood and junior Matt Poirer had a great game and it couldn't have been done without them. Passes from All-League quarterbacks Jeremy Shlosser, and Tony Couture, with catches from the receivers and tight ends Mike Wilson, Jason Siudak, Adam Feit, made our throwing game look pretty. Our wishbone backfield played by All-League Western Mass senior captain Donnell Boucher with help from Couture, Justin Whittington, All- League Jay Nally, Matt Beaulieu, and Chet Kubetin put yards on the field.

Everyone came together and Comp beat them, but then had to play South Hadley High School on Thanksgiving. The season came to an end due to big mistakes and poor decisions. The season was a roller coaster ride with a few big hills. The younger players contributed just as much as the starters and coaches did. So this is the season no one will ever forget.

Senior Captain Donnell Boucher (32) carries the ball for a great gain. Donnell's strong and smart running had a great deal of impact on the Colts running game.

Tucking the ball and lowering his shoulder, senior quarterback Jeremy Shlosser (9) runs the ball after the play was broken up by the defense.

A dedicated coach returns to the squad...

and the girls were off to a new start

The varsity and J.V. cheerleading squads began their seasons by attending an NCA summer camp at UMass Dartmouth. Both squads learned many new skills to use during their eventful seasons. Two varsity members, Robyn and Renee Gagnon received the All -American Award and were also finalists for a jump competition.

When the varsity squad returned from camp, they prepared a routine to compete in the fall for the first time since 1995. Placing second at the regional competition allowed them to compete at the State Championships in Franklin, Mass.

After the fall season the girls felt they needed a stronger coach. A couple of girls who have been coached by Janice McKenzie in the past, asked her to return. She returned and the team was off to a new start. With many dedicated members and a dedicated coach, a new routine was quickly put together. This routine brought home two third place and one second place trophy. The team competed in the P.V.I.A.C. and in the state championships.

The J.V. squad led by Amanda Barnes, hit their season off right from the start. They brought two second place and one third place trophy back to Comp. Both teams had successful seasons made possible by their coaches and dedicated members.

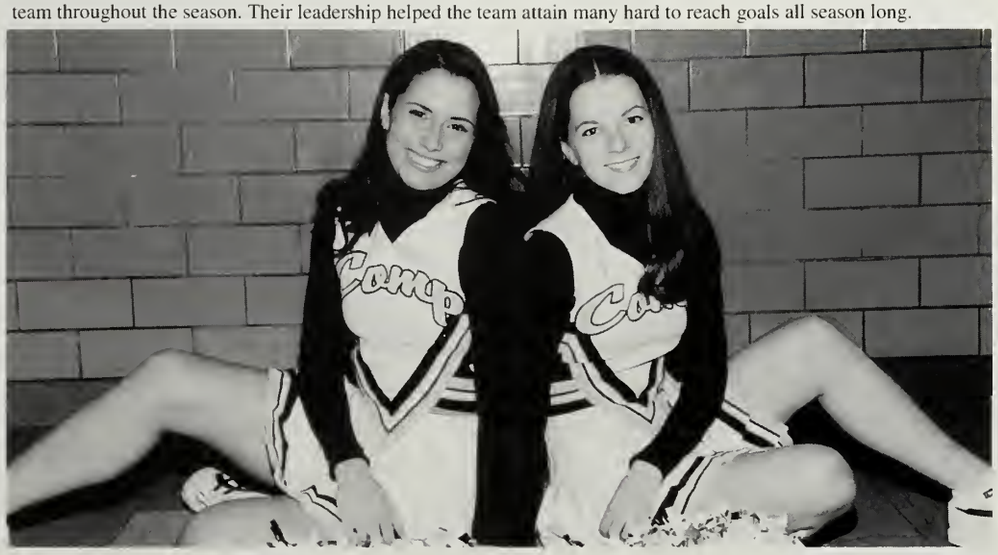
Showing high flying skills in climbing, sisters Robyn and Renee Gagnon take a minute to pose for a snapshot. Robyn will leave her great ability as a captain and a climber to her sister Renee to carry on with the squad.

Varsity Captains Megan Grenier and Robyn Gagnon displayed a great work ethic that rubbed off on the rest of the team throughout the season. Their leadership helped the team attain many hard to reach goals all season long.



Friends and teammates Jocelyn Wildman and Jamie Tellier brought laughs and smiles to the team during practice, games and competitions.

Loving the attention, these girls aren't afraid to show their smiles off.

Kicking Their Way Through The Season...

The Boys' Soccer Team Runs Into Some Changes

The boys' soccer team went through a lot this year. One major change that they had to undergo is having a new coach. Last year's coach, Mr. Davis, retired from the position, and Dave Carlos took over the job. With only having about 20 boys come out for soccer this year and 17 actually staying on the team, it wasn't even possible to have a JV team this year. "Not having many people wanting to play this year, made it tough on all of us. Most games their was seven, eight or nine guys who had to play the entire game without a sub," said senior captain Chris Rzeszutek. The coach used the players he had and worked them to the best of their abilities.

The team began working together better at practices and games for more effective playing. They began really working to their potential. Although, their record was not spectacular, they were playing very well. "Our defense struggled a lot which reflected on a lot of the games' outcomes," said senior captain Bob Arcott. Having to play against some of the top teams such as Ludlow, East Longmeadow and Minnechaug was a tough thing to do. Also, losing a lot of excellent seniors after last year was rough.

Thanksgiving weekend the Colts and the Pacers played in the second annual Chicopee vs. Holyoke Soccer Challenge. Players from the two Chicopee high schools combine to form one Chicopee team and play against the three Holyoke high schools. Chicopee came off with a victory this year of 3-2. They have won both years that this game has been being played. Comp's Ross Domingos scored the second goal of the game, and Bob Arcott scored the third goal, winning the game for the Chicopee team with only minutes left. This was a good way for the guys to end their soccer season.

Trying to maneuver around his East Longmaedow opponent, Chris Rzeszutek (#10) tries to steal the ball. Chris had an excellent season and was selected to the All-State and All-Western Mass teams. He also was one of the top goal-scorers for the Colts this season.

Twisting his body into a crazy position is Ross Domingos. Ross led the team in points this season. He also played a very important offensive role for the Colts in the position of forward. Ross's speed and agility did a lot for Comp. Ross was selected to the All-League team because of the many contributions he made to the Comp Varsity team.

Leaping in front of his opponent is Bob Arcott (#8). Bob played the position of stopper and helped the teams's defense out greatly this season. Ryan Hurley (#11), helping Bob, also had an outstanding season playing wherever needed on the field. Both Bob and Ryan received the Coach's Award. Chris Rzeszutek (#10) looks on with awe.

A Memorable turn around!!!

It finally happened, one of the biggest turnarounds in Comp girls' soccer history! It wasn't exactly worst to first, but the Comp girls' soccer team seemed to pull off the impossible from the beginning of the season. The team worked very diligently day in and day out at every moment saying "this year is going to be different."

After practicing really hard during preseason, it was finally here, the first game. Although the first game was a loss, the Colts had scored two goals. Scoring two goals was a major accomplishment for them since the year before they scored a total of five goals all season. The next game came and the girls went into it open-minded with their heads high. "It was an awesome feeling," stated Heather Gondek, as the girls walked off the field with their first win in almost two seasons.

The season continued this way and the girls never gave up. Toward the end of the season the team had a bumpy road ahead. The last week of the season had them playing five games in seven days and needing only five points to make the tournament. They managed to pull off what would have seemed impossible to them a year ago. For the first time in six years the team was going to the tournament. In the first round of the tournament, the team was to play an undefeated Sci-Tech team at their field. The girls knew what they had to do and they came out strong and defeated them 8-0. Next was nationally ranked Ludlow. The girls lost to Ludlow in the second round of the Division I tournament but were proud of what they had accomplished. They made it farther then ever before, got to play an amazing team and gave it all they had. Summing it up nicely, coach Julie Pavoni stated, "It's remarkable for a team that went 0-15-1 last season to go 9-5-4 this season. I am really proud of these girls."

Senior girls: Stephanie Gagne (3), Heather Gondek (19), Jessica Mykytiuk (18), Mandy Roberts (11), Stephanie Gazda (2), Jeanne Ruell, Brenda Huard (17), Shannon Lambert (12), Andrea Paul (8), and Julie Kukahiko (5).

Gymnastics team improves greatly throughout season

Looking back to the beginning of the season, the team was full of potential waiting to show though.

"The first day of practice I knew that we were going to have a good season. We had girls with good tumbling and vaulting skills. I didn't expect, however, the others teams to have as much experience as they did. Our girls practiced hard and it showed throughout the year," stated assistant coach Tina Perreault. The team worked together and improved their score every meet.

The gymnastics team consisted of six seniors, two juniors, three sophomores, and two freshmen. With the help of coaches Sandi Barrett and Perreault, as well as the tri-captains Sabrina Cote, Liz Viets, and Jen Hawkes, the team reached a great score of 115.00.

According to senior Megan Doray, "Out of all the four years I've been on the team, I'd say this year was one of the top scoring years," she said. Senior Sabrina Cote agreed, "We improved a lot because of our dedication," she said.

Although the team score was not high enough to place in Western Mass, many individuals qualified. Individuals who qualified were seniors Viets, Hawkes, Danielle Maynard, Melissa Swider, Megan Doray, and sophomore Emily Chagnon.

"It was a pleasure hosting Western Mass even though we didn't make it as a team," stated Swider.

It was a sad time for the seniors. "I've had so much fun being a part of the team for four years. I'm going to miss the team a lot," exclaimed Hawkes.

As kind of a good-bye to the seniors, the girls put on one last show. They put in a lot of time and effort into the end of the year show.

"It was a lot of hard work, but it was fun," stated Chagnon.

Overall the girls had a fun season.

With the shot of a gun, they are off. Lungs burning, adrenaline rushing, the Comp cross country team starts to set the pace. Minute after minute, mile after mile, these boys not only put their best foot forward, they also put their hearts and souls into what they do.

The unfaltering drive of these athletes has brought them to victories throughout the season. The team placed 10th out of 20 at Western Mass. and 14th out of 33 at the PVIAC Championships. They also won 12 meets out of the 16 they ran throughout the season. "We even surprised ourselves this year," said Micky Dumais. During the season, this team has proved that a lot of hard work along with determination will ultimately pay off.

Hard work pays off

From last year's 6-8 season to a 8-8 season, the Comp girls' cross country team shows how much their hard work has paid off. "I was very pleased with our season considering we only had two returning runners, " commented Coach Martell.

Despite this fact, newcomers managed to perform extremely well. Freshman Stephanie Granger explained that she was satisfied with her performance because, she said, "I tried my hardest and I got to run in Western Mass." Equally pleased was junior Lindsey Bartosz who commented, "It's my first year and I was surprised at what I could do."

Also a large number of girls competed in the Individual (PVIC) Competition: Bartosz, Granger, Heather Wenninger, Krista Langlois, Kathryn Meade, Jessica Hoffman, Rebecca Huerta, Andrea Laizer, Andrea Pare, and Audrey McClain. Western Mass competitors included Granger, Wenninger, Meade, Huerta, Laizer, and McClain. Wenninger also went on to compete in the State Meet, Regionals, and the Junior Olympics.

An even better performance is anticipated for next season. Coach Martell hopes "team members will be able to recruit some new members, especially some incoming freshmen," because, "we will graduate six seniors at the end of 2002." Captain Heather Wenninger adds, "Hopefully those who [came] out this year will be with us next year because they will definitely find improvement in their times."

Hard work and dedication..... leads Lady Colts to tournament

The Chicopee Comp girls' varsity basketball team started out the 2000-2001 season with a new coach. It was final that Coach Alex Vyce was returning to the basketball court after coaching the Comp boys' varsity team for many years. This year's players were senior tri-captains Kiley Lapointe, Amber Patruno, Julie Kukahiko, and Kara Sullivan, juniors Ashleigh Barrows, Alexez Lamountain, and Rachel Pluta, and sophomores Kelly Koske and Michelle Labrecque, who was the team's "sharp shooter," but unfortunately, half way through the season suffered from a torn ACL.

Going into many of the games this year, Comp was considered the underdog, but left many teams surprised. Kukahiko said, "We all really came together when times got tough; each one of us stepped up in a different situation." The girls' team finished their regular season with a 12-6 record, beating Easthampton High School by sixteen points for their twelfth win.

These girls practiced hard every day when they didn't have a game. This hard work and dedication to the game earned them an eighth seed spot in the Western Mass tournament. In this preliminary round, they were matched up against East Longmeadow High School at home. This game was said to be one of the best played and most exciting game ever seen in girls' basketball. The lead change went back and forth throughout the whole game and ended in a double overtime loss by six points. The Lady Colts did not want to give this chance away. Julie Kukahiko had put up a three point shot to put the Colts into overtime, and Kiley Lapointe put up a three point shot at the buzzer to put the Colts into double overtime. The 2000-2001 girls' varsity basketball season was a remarkable one, leaving the girls with their heads held high.

Senior Tri-Captains Amber Patruno, Kiley Lapointe, and Julie Kukahiko were a strong asset to this year's team. Amber's great hustle on the court, Kiley's tremendous rebounding, and Julie's ability to drive the lane and score led the Colts to the Western Mass Tournament.

Danielle Pineau said, "Everyone contributed 110% each day, and it shows with our winning record."

Junior forward Ashleigh Barrows penetrates strong to the hoop for two points. Ashleigh's strong athletic ability will be a positive aspect for next year's team.

Junior guard Alexez Lamountain looks for a quick pass as sophomore Michelle Labrecque stays back for defense. Alexez's quickness and smart thinking led the team this year at the point guard position.

Freshman Stephanie Rege looks for an outlet pass while being guarded by three defenders. Her big presence on the court helped the Colts J.V. team to have a winning season.

Dedication and Hard Work Set Examples

The boys' varsity basketball team showed great dedication and hard work throughout the season. The team was led by head coach Dan Franczek and assistant coach Bob Lebrecque. The varsity co-captains Curt Kosirog and Justin Franczek used senior leadership throughout the season and helped the Colts make the Western Mass. Tournament. Despite their efforts the Colts were eliminated in the first round by perennial power house Springfield Central. Hard work earned the team a 10-10 record and the school's first win over arch rival Chicopee High in 15 meetings.

The coaches recognized junior Tony Couture and senior Curt Kosirog as Co-MVP's of the team. Curt broke the school's single game rebounding record twice and set it when he grabbed twenty-six boards versus Agawam on February 9. His excellent basketball skills are shown in his blocking and rebounding ability. These skills also helped him attain a spot on the Division I All Western Massachusetts second team as a center. Tony is known for his sharp three point shooting and great ball handling. The junior's talent were seen throughout the season when he leans back and swishes a three or steals the ball from the opponent and drives to the basket for an easy lay up.

Unfortunately, the team will be losing seniors Curt Kosirog, Justin Franczek, Billy Skinner and Andy Brach. Each of these men brought a good team spirit and talent and many memories to a record setting season.

Comp hockey leaves stars in the eyes of spectators

The Comp hockey team is almost unrecognizable from that which held last year's 2-17-1 record. This year's team has blown away their opponent's defense with powerful scoring. This change can be attributed to the rearrangement of the lines and the addition of a few new key players. This year's hockey team compiled a 15-6 record that easily clinched the Fay-Wright Division Championship and got them a spot in the Western Mass. Tournament. Although they got knocked out in the first round, the game against Amherst was exciting as it always is when watching a Comp hockey game. The team gave it their all and lost 4-3 in overtime after a penalty shot tied the game in the last minutes of regulation.

Coach Roger Bowden said of his team's success, "I believe that this team played at or above their potential in most games and that the players should be very proud of their effort and their accomplishments."

To add to their list of accomplishments is the fact that three of their players finished 1-2-3 in the league for scoring. Senior co-captain Mike Abbott finished first with 63 pts., sophomore Kyle Danis was second with 58 pts., and senior co-captain Scott Martin finished third with 49 pts.

Another contribution to the team's success was a pair of excellent captains in Abbott and Martin. Abbott's connection with the team not only motivated but united them to play better as a team, even when they were faced with tough opponents.

"Yes! I got it," is what sophomore star Kyle Danis is thinking after he passes the puck to one of his teammates. As a first year player for Comp, Danis has been a key player with 34 goals and 24 assists.

After scoring a hat trick, senior co-captain Scott Martin was forced to pick up the hats that excited fans threw onto the rink to show support for their favorite hockey team. With Martin on the rink the fans had a lot to be happy about. This year Martin scored 24 goals and 25 assists.

Keeping his eyes locked on the puck, junior Brian Moller skates forward to catch a pass from one of his teammates. Although he couldn't play part of the season due to injury, Moller contributed to his team's successful season with six goals and six assists.

Girls' & boys' swimming splash up magic in the water

The girls' and boys'swim teams managed to splash up magic in every meet they swam. Their record may not seem all that magical, but their spirits and enthusiasm definitely were. Sophomore Shannon MacNeal stated, "Our score does not reflect anything. As a team, we have improved a tremendous amount. The team spirit was great, better then ever." The swim team definitely knew how to have fun. Their ability to do this led to strong team unity and to achieving personal best rather then dwelling on a loss. Jarid Cusson, a freshman member, and Larissa Perreault, a sophomore member of the team, both said, " The road trips on the bus are always fun especially with Captain Rick." The team has plenty of memories with all the fun things that they do. The team came together not just in the pool, but also outside with all the gatherings for movies and team parties. Kat (Kathryn) Meade, a junior member of the team, stated, "There are plenty of memories from this season. The fin print of Mike's (Carney) back, the chocolate cake on the bus for Ricky's birthday, the cannon balls after meets, Slurpee's after meets, me and Becki (Huerta) being the team cowgirls and all the fun things that we did." Everyone on the team this year looks forward to coming back next year for more fun and exciting memories.

Comp boys' and girls' ski team ski to success

The ski team had a rough season with the low number of participants for the girls' team. The team was made up of one new sophomore racer and three returning racers. Jessica Mykytiuk made 13th place in the C-Division for individual racing for girls.

The boys' team did very well in their racing. Their team was made up of two new racers and three returning racers. Mike Wilson did excellent in his last year of skiing for Comp. He raced to second place for C-Division boys. Ryan Tellier also did a great job his senior year making 14th place for C-Division boys.

Although almost half of the team were beginners, and struggled in the beginning of the season, they worked to improve their times. This was difficult because they only had one chance a week to practice their skills and new techniques before a race. New racer, sophomore Katlyn Picard said, " The season was very fun for my first year and I hope to improve my score throughout the next two years." Sophomore Eric Clapp said, "I felt the season went well and everyone had a fun time."

The ski team had to also deal with changing coaches midseason because of health issues. It is always hard to get used to a new coach and to do it in the middle of competition was even harder. Miraculously the team pulled together and made the best of the season.

The 2000-2001 skiing season went extremely well considering all of the difficulties they had to overcome.

Indoor track teams are "here to stay"

TRACK? A WINTER SPORT? RIGHT. . . .

Indoor track was seen at first as a joke and just a phase that would go the way of the volleyball club . . . Well, they're not laughing anymore. First of all, from a team of fifteen girls and nine guys, eighteen members made it to the Western Mass Competition held on February 9. Among the athletes that competed, senior Jennifer Hawkes (high jump), junior Lea Daigneault (shot put), and senior Luis Torres (55m dash, 55m hurdles) consistently finished in the top three spots of their respective events the entire season. Freshman Stephanie Granger broke the record early in the season for the two mile and then bettered it with a time of 13:36. Granger later went on to compete in Western Mass where she finished sixth. The team members themselves admit they were pleased with their performance considering, as senior Stephanie Gagne put it, "I joined the team to stay in shape for spring and give me something to do." Others also claim the success can be attributed to the tight knit team atmosphere.

The main complaint was that the meets lasted so long (sometimes six hours or more). This is due to the fact that all teams competed at the same time and place including both guy and girl athletes.

Despite the newness of the sport and confusion of the meets, both the guys and girls learned a lot from their experience. Hawkes explained, "Obstacles are those scary things you see when you take your eyes off your goal." Sophomore Antoine Pierce claimed, " You might not be the best , but you're never the worst." And of course the famous line from Coach Potorski, "You don't have to win to look good doing it!"

- Shauna Albrecht

Making her dreams a reality, sophomore Melissa Albrecht achieves two goals in one meet, competing in Western Mass and winning her heat with a new personal best.

Hoping to compete in either the Smith College or Mt. Holyoke track programs, senior Jennifer Hawkes makes it happen. Hawkes finished first in the Western Mass high jump event with a height of 5'0".

Finishing off a perfect season senior Luis Torres crosses the finish line at Western Mass with first place. Torres also qualified for the State meet and proves he will do great thing in the future.

Puppies and Kittens and Cows...Oh My!

Whether it's a fuzzy bunny, a cuddly kitten, a prickly hedgehog, or a frisky puppy, the students of CCHS love their pets. But what makes these animals so special? Their lovable personality? Their charming curiosity? Or their adorable looks? Perhaps what makes them so special is the fact that they are pets.

Senior Stephanie Marstellar loves her cat, Angel, because "When I'm sad, she knows I'm sad and she comes over, y'know, she just knows I need a friend." Other students love their critters for different reasons. Some are funnier reasons then others. Like Melissa Swider, co-owner of a Chow Chow named Simba; "Simba is special to me because he has a purple tongue and purple is my favorite color." Senior Kelly Malone says "Blackie's just a spaz but he's the sweetest thing in the world," when she talks about her cat.

Meghan Deitz, class of 2001, has a different reason her dog is so special. "JuJu's my first dog that I had responsibility for." And a pet is a big responsibility. Students need to walk, wash, and feed their pets. And what good would a pet be if you couldn't have a little play time with them? "Princess likes to play hide-and-go-seek with me," says Nicole Theroux about her 13-year-old Lhasa Apso.

Students. Pets. The two words go together well. After a grueling day of tests, quizzes, and homework it's always nice to have a friendly animal to curl up with and talk to. Sometimes they're your best-friend... sometimes they're seen as demons. But no matter what, we always love them.

MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

"It was my sophomore year at a home football game. I was sitting on the bleachers and started to get up when I realized that my shirt was completely ripped. It had gotten caught on something and now I had a ugly looking ripped shirt with a huge hole in it. Not only was it embarrassing, it was annoying to walk around with a shirt with a big hole in it."

-Cheri Rosienski

"It was a very cold, slushy, snowy day outside, and I was walking to my locker. And everyone knows that when it's wet and snowy outside, the floors in Comp are usually dirty and slippery, too. So, I went to walk over to my locker and turn the combination when all of a sudden my foot just slipped out from underneath me and I went flying down the hallway. Now I was in pain and had to go the rest of the day with dirty pants."

-Heather Gondek

"One day at my house I was hungry and lazy so I decided to pop a TV dinner in the microwave. Well, you know how after it cooks it has that wet, plastic film on it, right? So, I brought it into the living room and put it down on the recliner so I could go get a drink. When I came back I forgot I had put it there and sat right on it. My pants were soaked and I couldn't walk right for a few days because I had burns all over my butt."

-Jeff Goss

"I was skating out on the ice at a hockey game for a face off. I had my arms up cheering- excited for the start of the game. I don't really know how, but all of a sudden my foot just slipped out from underneath me. I fell right on my butt and felt like a complete idiot. I knew everyone in the stands saw it and must have been laughing because it was hilarious."

SPARKLING FRIENDSHIPS

Friendship. The dictionary defines friendship as one attached to another by affection or esteem. Although many friendships end as fast as they start, some never forget those people who have helped them with difficult situations that come upon them throughout their lives. Junior Lea Daigneault said, " My best friend Nichole Lafleur is so nice and funny, we have so much fun together and have so many inside jokes I am really glad that I met her."

A friend is someone who helps me when I have a problem. When I think about it, my best friend is Stephanie Bergeron," said Cheri Rosienski. "Friendship is so important to me. I am so glad that I have such awesome friends that are always there for me. I love my girls!" said Mary Baron. "If it wasn't for my best friends I wouldn't have gotten through all the hard times," said senior Nikki Rosienski. Friendship is something very valuable and should not be taken for granted.

Middle: Friends forever,Tracy Lemanski, Lea Daigneault, and James Mattson get together at the Student Council Christmas Party held at Adelphias. "I have been great friends with Tracy and James for years now and I hope we stay friends forever," commented Daigneault.

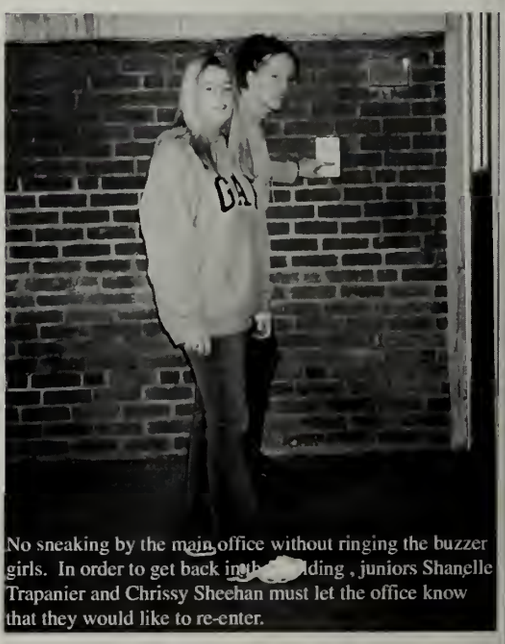
A little breakfast won't hurt anyone, right? Linda Toussaint, Andrea Paul, Julie Kukahiko, and Mary Baron enjoy a break from first period while having a great breakfast at Jennifer's Kitchen.

There's nothing like a well balanced meal to start off the day! Before school, senior girls Lindsay Folsom, Diane Casa, Liz Viets, Sarah Fitzgerald, and Stephanie Olech relax after a nice breakfast at Jennifer's Kitchen. After relaxing, the girls had to leave to make it back to school for second period.

Standing in front of Jennifer's Kitchen one last time, senior girls Steph Olech, Liz Viets, and Sarah Fitzgerald decide whether or not to go back to school. The girls had many great memories here throughout their four years of high school.

What a way to end a great meal... with a picture of our favorite waitress and the menu. Seniors Lindsay Folsom, Andrea Paul, Liz Viets, Diane Casa, Sarah Fitzgerald, Mary Baron, Stephanie Olech, and Julie Kukahiko.



No sneaking by the main office without ringing the buzzer girls. In order to get back in the building, juniors Shanelle Trapanier and Chrissy Sheehan must let the office know that they would like to re-enter.

Only one other place to find students in the AM: Jennifer's Kitchen

If you take a survey as to the students' favorite place to eat when they should be in class, you'll find that the most popular answer is Jennifer's Kitchen. For many years, students of Comp have enjoyed breakfast at Jenny's, a local restaurant on Chicopee St. Students can be found there during first, second, and even third period, stuffing themselves with breakfast foods. After re-fueling on food, students come piling into the school, wait in line to be signed in, and then sit in the time-out room until the end of the period.

Why Jennifer's Kitchen you ask? Students seem to like the food and the prices.

"Jenny's has the best food as far as I'm concerned. The food is cheap and the service is great!" commented senior Stephanie Olech.

Some students find it to be a bit troublesome when they only have eight days that they are "allowed" to miss. They get excited and go out to breakfast a little more than they should and end up losing credit in that class.

Senior Liz Viets said, "You really have to be careful when figuring out when you can take a break, because there will always be sick days, too."

Many students still take the risk and vow to keep Jennifer's Kitchen an active part of Comp's student life.

Waiting in line patiently, the breakfast crew arrives from Jennifer's Kitchen before the second bell rings. In order for them to attend their second period class they have to beat the bell so they don't get caught in the time-out room.

Bring It On... Faculty Motivates Magical Moments!

No fighting. No arguing. No disrespect or prejudice. No giving up or refusing to learn. Teachers and students that cooperate - what kind of school is this? Chicopee Comprehensive High School is a school that dedicates its time and efforts to creating a comfortable and secure environment for students and faculty. Comp is a place that not only challenges students to grow academically, but also inspires them to widen their horizons as individuals. Throughout the year, numerous clubs, activities, and events take place with the guidance, support and time of skilled teachers and administrators. Because of the incredible will of teachers here at Comp, a student's work will not be accepted until it has been done to their very best expectations. Education is one of the greatest assets a person can have in the world, and those who dedicate their life to teaching are to be commended. So many decisions are made here every day. Some will change a life, and others will impact hundreds. Through the good times and the bad, teachers have been there for all of us in one way or another and have proven that they are not just teachers. They are our friends and mentors. As freshman, many of us went into class petrified with a backpack filled with way too many notebooks and school supplies. Now that we are seniors, these past four years really haven't been that bad because of the lessons we've learned from teachers in and out of the classroom at Comp. All of us will go our separate ways after this year, but let us leave knowing that no one can ever take away the memories and learning experiences we've had over the past four years - no one. Upon graduation from Comp, we know that everybody better watch out because we will make a difference in this world, and our voices will be heard throughout the entire future. The magic has just begun!

Showing his students a valuable lesson in electronics, Mr. Stafanowicz aids them to make the right choice. How they perform today in vocational will shape the actions and choices they make in the future.

Co-workers and pals, Mr. Davis and Mr. Schuerfeld share a moment in the hall to prove that they really are not all that bad. Their classes may be stressful, but fun nonetheless.

Assisting with a vocabulary word mix-up, Mr. Stachura aids in the understanding of this weeks word assignment. Discovering how valuable a dictionary is, students are encouraged to explore its many uses in this English 10 honors class.

Inspirations For The Future

If there was one thing you retained from your teenage years, what would it be? Your classroom assignments? Probably not. The names of all your classmates? Maybe. Chances are sometime during your high school experience you have been given advice that has, in some way, changed your outlook on life and gave you motivation for the future. Such is also the case with our faculty members.

For example, Vice Principal Ronald Pete, although he couldn't remember the source, shared that the most valuable piece of advice he received was "to go back to school." Then he returned to school after having dropped out at sixteen. His advice to the Class of 2001 is, "Learn to deal with future situations, the real world isn't going to compensate for you."

English Department Head John Kozikowski explained the most influential advice given to him is the same he would give to this year's senior class, "When it comes to working, find something you enjoy and make it your career!"

Finally, "You get nothing for free," changed Vocational Director Kenneth Widelo's future and he advises seniors to "Pursue your education or military goals to the fullest extent in order to achieve your goals." Years from now, if you were asked what advice most affected you, what would you say?

Is this the little girl I carried,
Is this the little boy at play?
I don't remember growing older, when did they?

When did she get to be a beauty,
When did he grow to be so tall?
Wasn't it yesterday when they were small?

Sunrise, sunset, sunrise, sunset,
Swiftly flow the days,
Seedlings turn overnight to sunflowers,
Blossoming even as we gaze

Sunrise, sunset, sunrise, sunset,
Swiftly, fly the years,
One season following another,
Laden with happiness and tears.

Christina Isabel Cox,
Congratulations on a job well done,
I love you, you've made me proud!
